Victoria, Vancouver Chiefs Under Fire

Lawyer Hits 'Sheep, Hacks'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver lawyer has charged justice is apathetic sheep and some judges are political hacks.

C. R. MacLean said the jury system is dying out because people no longer believe it is a noble and solemn duty to serve.

Mr. MacLean, a member of the Vancouver Bar Association's justice committee, made the comments in a speech Tuesday on The Presumption of Guilt at a Young Men's Christian Association program meeting.

In a question-and-answer period later, he severely criticized Victoria Police Chief Jack Gregory and Vancouver Police Chief Ralph Booth, who have called for wider powers for police.

"Juries nowadays are apathetic sheep," Mr. MacLean said.

"They look at the judge like he had come down from Mount Sinai with 12 tablets in his hands."

He said judges in many cases are nothing more than political hacks who make errors which can give a jury wrong direction.

Mr. MacLean said he was shocked by the attitudes of Chief Gregory and Chief Booth in declaring police should have wider powers and the magistrate and judge "almost automatically presume he is telling the truth and the accused is lying," the lawyer said.

"These policemen are being led by men like Booth and Gregory who should be in the front line fighting for civil liberties instead of fighting against these things."

Mr. MacLean urged the public to fight summonses for minor offences.

"You will be doing a public service if you go to court and make them prove the charge, even if it's only a traffic ticket."

"This might force the police to exercise more discretion than they do."

SPENCER 'FED' RED WEB

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 99-page document reading like a movie spy thriller and reporting how the Russians were surreptitiously given information about everything from ethnic groups in Canada to pipelines and even headstones of the dead, was reported Wednesday night by Mr. Justice Dalton Wells.

The Ontario Supreme Court justice, appointed by Prime Minister Pearson to inquire into the case of the late George Victor Spencer, the will-o-the-wisp figure in a web of intrigue, released the document on the eve of opening public hearings here.

(See Text Page 50)

It was a transcript of evidence taken at hearings held in Ottawa April 13-14-15 in which W. H. Kelly, assistant commissioner of the RCMP and the former director of security and intelligence, told how Spencer made at least seven trips to Ottawa to make secret contact with Russian agents.

Spencer

Confirming Statement

In these visits, the assistant commissioner said, Spencer supplied the Soviet agents with films and verbal and written reports on such things as farms for sale close to the U.S. border, ethnic groups in Canada and their political feelings, U.S.-Canada border-crossing procedures, photos of Vancouver slums, the Trans-Canada Pipeline and even the names and dates of deceased on headstones in Vancouver cemeteries.

Assistant Commissioner Kelly testified RCMP felt the significance of Spencer's activities suggested acquisition of suitable property for the establishment of a Russian intelligence service illegal network near the United States border.

With information from tombstones, said the RCMP officer, the Russians could send someone to Canada using the identity of the dead person.

The document contained a statements made to the RCMP by Spencer and labelled "top secret" in which the 62-year-old dismissed most of the assertions about Spencer's activities made under oath by the assistant commissioner.

At one point in the Ottawa inquiry, commission counsel J. J. Robinette asked assistant

"Do the matters that Spencer was called upon to perform, in your opinion—forget the Russian opinion—in your opinion fit into an espionage program?"

Mr. Kelly: "They do."

Mr. Robinette: "Does this investigation disclose whether or not Spencer was paid anything by the Russian intelligence officers for his work and for his trips to Ottawa?"

Mr. Kelly: "From the investigation, we've estimated Spencer received an average of $500 per trip for the seven trips to Ottawa, making a total of $3,500."

Never Got Bonus

In his statement, Spencer said:

"During all my trips to Ottawa I would only get my actual expenses reimbursed to me. I never did get a bonus."

"When I first made contact with these people I did not think that there was any ulterior motive but after the third trip I suspected there was something wrong and I was maybe being used as an agent."

In his statement Spencer said he was an accepted member of the Communist party in the late 1930s, was expelled in 1946 "from the party which was at that time known as the Labor Progressive Party" because of arguments over policy matters.

Bonner Hails Decision

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Attorney-General Bonner Wednesday hailed the Board of Transport Commissioners' ruling about B.C. Telephone Company profits as a "landmark judgment" in favor of telephone subscribers in this province.

"It is not something the people will throw their hats in the air about because it's a very technical sort of field, although the judgment is of definite advantage to phone subscribers," he said.

The attorney-general said because a maximum has now been set on its allowable maximum profits, the company will probably have to bring in proposals which will mean rate reductions for telephone subscribers. (See Page 15.)

Mr. Bonner said he conferred Wednesday morning with Vancouver lawyer C. W. Brazier, who represented the provincial government during the com-

Shells Lay Silent Under Busy Strip

PARIS (Reuters) — Workmen repairing the main runway of Orly Airport discovered Wednesday a land mine and six 105-mm. shells just below its surface. The runway was used by about 300 planes a day until it was closed recently for resurfacing.

King Car Raked By Critic

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ralph Nader had a fiery warning Wednesday for all those kings, princes and uncommon men who revel in the greatest auto status symbol of them all. The Rolls-Royce, he said, has poor door latches.

The automobile industry's chief critic made his charge in a statement submitted to House commerce committee hearings on highway safety.

"The overrated and overpriced Rolls-Royce has poor door latches," he said. "According to Derwyn Severy of the University of California at Los Angeles, at a 20-mile-per-hour impact, the Rolls-Royce's doors, hood and trunk will come open."

In London, where the cars are custom-made, the loudest sound coming out of Rolls-Royce's headquarters was the ticking of that clock. The company said it had no comment on Nader's statement.

Nader told UPI he had cited the Rolls-Royce to show failure to make cars as safe as they could be was "endemic to the industry."

"It's supposed to be the king. Look what we get," Nader said. "For $15,000 to $18,000 you could have a crash-worthy car that would be the marvel of the industry."

The car critic said the Rolls-Royce had luxury and snob appeal as well as "considerable reliability and durability." For the price, he added, "it could have very significant safety innovations but there has been little change year after year."

Congress May Enter Dispute

SEATTLE (CP). — The U.S. Congress will step in if Canada taxes unilateral action to alter fishing procedure in the North Pacific, Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) said Wednesday.

He commented on a controversy between the two nations.

(Also see Page 15)

Canadian fishermen have threatened to fish the high seas with nets for salmon unless U.S. fishermen stop intercepting British Columbia-bound salmon off Noyes Island in southeast Alaska.

U.S. fishermen contend Noyes Island is a historic American salmon fishery and they have no intention of leaving it.

Magnuson said from Washington, D.C.:

"It is my sincere hope that cooler heads may prevail in our present negotiations with

China's Grumbling Rebels Imperil Mao's Future

By BENE-GEORGES INAGANI

TOKYO (AP)—China's army newspaper reported Wednesday that there is a rebellious group in the Chinese Communist party and the survival of Mao Tse-tung's ideology is at stake.

The editorial in Liberation Army Daily, broadcast from Peking, was the latest of recent statements indicating concern in the Peking Politburo about trends among intellectuals and some sections of the armed forces.

The editorial said there are in the party certain "anti-party" persons who wear "a veil of Marxism-Leninism and Mao Tse-tung's teachings."

"The activities of these anti-party, anti-socialist elements are not an accidental phenomenon," it said. "They are responding to the great international anti-Chinese chorus of the imperialists, modern revisionists and various reactionaries to revive the Chinese reactionary class which has been struck down."

This seemed an indirect way of saying that pro-Soviet elements should be rooted out. By "imperialists and modern revisionists," the Chinese Communists mean the Americans and the current Soviet leadership. Peking has been accusing the Kremlin of plotting with the United States against China.

The presence of pro-Soviet elements in China, possibly influential places, conceivably might explain why the Soviet leaders have seemed restrained in dealing with cascades of anti-Kremlin vituperation from Peking. The Kremlin has replied only with appeals for world Communist unity.

Analysts have suggested that any significant change in leadership or policies in China might clear the way for mending relations with the Soviet party. That could mean much economically and perhaps in modernizing China's armed forces.

The chief target of the editorial is the intellectual class, but it made clear that others are involved, those "linked with the anti-party activities of right-wing opportunists within the party."

Editorials in the official Peking People's Daily have warned against anti-party elements but have said that elements are few and that communism would win out.

Long Tour Nears End

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth left Upland Airport at 8:34 p.m. EDT Wednesday on the last leg of her return to London after a six-week tour of Australia and New Zealand.

Rhodesia Blackout Aim of Saboteurs

SALISBURY (LAT) — African nationalists attempted to blow up a power line which would have blacked out three quarters of Rhodesia.

Cutting the cable between Salisbury and the Kariba Dam was believed to have been the signal for a nationwide outbreak of sabotage attacks.

Explosives were found Wednesday at the base of one of the 100-foot pylons carrying the main line only 10 miles from the scene of a gun battle between Rhodesian police and a gang of terrorists which left seven of the gang dead Friday. It was not learned whether the charge of explosives had been placed by the terrorists engaged in the battle, or whether another group was responsible.

Police captured an undisclosed number of intruders since the Ian Smith government declared its independence last November.

Russian Fiats Will Roll

TURIN (AP) — The Soviet Union and Italy's Fiat Automobile Co. Wednesday signed an agreement for a plant in Russia to turn out 2,000 cars a day. The deal was described in business circles as the biggest ever by the Soviet government with a private concern.

The plant for assembling Fiat cars inside the Soviet Union is expected to carry a $250,000,000 price tag.

'Gertie Got Hot Water and Poured It on Her Face'

Housewife Led Torturers

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The polio-crippled younger sister of a teen-age torture victim wept Wednesday as she described how slain Sylvia Likens was forced naked to the floor and branded with a red hot needle.

Jennie Likens testified her 16-year-old sister lay on the kitchen floor at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Baniszewski "just gritting her teeth and shaking her head."

man; her daughter, Paula, 17; son, John, 15; and neighbor youths Coy Hubbard and Richard Hobbs, both 15, are on trial on charges of first degree murder in the slaying.

Jennie said the words "I'm a prostitute and proud of it" were burned into her sister's abdomen "three or four days before Sylvia died."

"Shirley struck the matches. Gertie (Mrs. Baniszewski) and Rickie (Hobbs) would hold the needle to the match. Gertie started the word 'I'm' and then she said she was getting sick and told Rickie to talk over," Jennie said, wiping away tears.

Jennie said at that point she was sent to the grocery store and did not witness the remainder of the branding with the needle. She said when she returned to the Baniszewski home, where the Likens girls were boarders while their parents operated a food concession with a traveling carnival, Sylvia stood at the door leading to the basement.

"Rickie took a poker and tried to heat it with matches but it didn't get hot enough to mark him, so he lit some paper and heated the poker," Jennie said the poker was to be used to brand a letter "S" on Sylvia's body.

When the poker branding was completed, Jennie said, Sylvia went back upstairs.

"Gertie said to (Sylvia), 'Now what are you going to do? You can't get married or undressed in front of anybody with that on you.' Sylvia said, 'There's nothing I can do. It's on there now.'"

Jennie said the night before Sylvia died, Oct. 28, she collapsed after days of abuse.

"Gertie got hot water and poured it on her face, Sylvia couldn't get up. Everytime she got up, she'd go right back down on the floor."

When Sylvia sought to flee from the Baniszewski home, Jennie said, "Mrs. Baniszewski dragged her back into the house by her hair."

Job Taxes Stinging Most Britons

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — Cost-weary Britons began to react Wednesday to James Callaghan's unexpected budget jab—the tax on jobs. An outcry against inevitable price increases resounded from the barbershop to the tourist home which lives on tourist trade.

Higher prices are anticipated for theatre tickets, haircuts, laundry, cricket matches, bank services, hotels, restaurants and even independent public schools. Employers in the service industries will have to bear the tax—ranging from $1.75 a week for male employees down to $1.20 for girls. But in most cases these higher costs, beginning Sept. 5, will be passed along to the consumer.

REVENUE

The chancellor's new tax punch is expected to net the treasury almost $1,000,000,000 this year and lesser amounts in following years. Mortgage companies estimate existing lending rates of 6 1/2 per cent likely will be boosted shortly to seven or 7 1/2 per cent. Haircuts may rise by one shilling (15 cents).

Since the tax will be borne by all the service industries—from food to clothing—Iain Macleod, Conservative finance spokesman, estimated in the Commons Wednesday the price increases will be formidable and will be higher than the one-per-cent increase in living costs estimated by Callaghan.

GOUGERS

The last five budgets, he said, had added $1,000,000,000 ($3,000,000,000) in taxation. Callaghan has warned price gougers will be referred to the government's prices and incomes board for action. The board is under orders to keep wage and price rises moderate. But so far it has failed to halt a steady climb in living costs. The new tax is designed as a deflationary step, to sop up some consumer purchasing power and help the manufacturing industries, which will get back in refunds more of the job tax than they pay in. ## Pearson Plan Doomed

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Moves by Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson to initiate peace talks on Viet Nam appear to be doomed to failure. "Informed quarters" said in an official Yugoslav news agency report Wednesday.

The news agency noted that previous attempts by Canada to set up a conference along the lines of Geneva convention through the mediation efforts of the International Control Commission in Viet Nam had failed because of Canada's desire to have both parties enter unconditional negotiations.

The agency said that although India supported Canada's proposal, Poland had rejected it on the grounds that the Hanoi government cannot accept unconditional talks.

'Sexy' Items Going

OTTAWA (CP) — CBC Vice-President H. G. Walker said Wednesday the personnel of the program This Hour Has Seven Days has set itself up as an almost separate corporation within the CBC.

This is "the root evil" of the dispute between management and producers, he told the Commons Broadcasting Committee. Seven Days was an excellent public affairs program, but its producers caused "distressing problems" for the CBC and constantly challenged the policies and directives of the management.

Mr. Walker, manager of English network programming, said he wants to eliminate "trivia, seariness and prurient items" from Seven Days.

But he was so busy planning the CBC's color and centennial programs that he wondered how he found the time to go to the washroom.

He hoped Seven Days would continue as a "probing and aggressive program" next season. But management wanted to cut out "over-sexy items, sensational bits and satire that is done poorly."

DECISION FINAL

Mr. Walker said the decision to replace Patrick Watson and Laurie LaPierre as the program's hosts is final.

Prime Minister Pearson announced Sunday that Stuart Keate, on leave of absence from his post as publisher of the Vancouver Sun, would make an independent and comprehensive review of the Seven Days dispute. State Secretary Judy LaMarsh told the Commons Monday this review will include the reinstatement of the two hosts if Mr. Keate so decides.

Americans Blasting Before Rain

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B-52 bombers hit the South Vietnamese end of the Ho Chi Minh trail near the Cambodian border Wednesday for the seventh time in eight days.

With winds of the approaching monsoon season already sweeping North Viet Nam, the objective apparently was to disrupt plans of South Viet Nam's Viet Cong guerrillas and their North Vietnamese supporters.

The rainy season is the best time for enemy operations, because U.S. air power is hampered by the cloud cover from supporting South Vietnamese and other units under attack. With the monsoons due to hit within a few days, there was a fighting lull in the jungles, swamps and mountains of South Viet Nam.

LSD Drug Needs Studying

TORONTO (CP) — The value of the hallucinatory drug LSD in treating alcoholics has yet to be proven, the legislature's committee on government commissions was told Wednesday.

H. D. Archibald, executive director of the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario, said a recent study conducted by the foundation with 30 alcoholics showed no greater improvement among alcoholics on LSD than those treated without anything.

In an interview, Mr. Archibald said the foundation also made an extensive review of clinical and scientific literature about LSD. "This also led to the conclusion that the positive value of the drug has not been demonstrated effectively," he said.

STUDY NEEDED

"I do not wish to give the impression LSD is no good, but we feel that there is a need for less uncritical enthusiasm and more scientifically valid investigation."

Paris May Block Flights

PARIS (AP) — France has latest U.S. attack on de Gaulle's the Atlantic Alliance and bloc of NATO Allies it will review every month its permission for their military planes to fly over France or to land, informed sources reported Wednesday.

This means flights over or landings in France by Allied aircraft could be terminated on 30 days' notice, the sources said. There was no sign this was about to happen.

The move was the latest in President de Gaulle's program to remove France from the military activities of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

U.K. ENVOY

It came as Britain announced George Thomson, the No. 2 minister in the British foreign office, will go to Washington and Ottawa to discuss NATO questions generally and the prospect of moving political and military headquarters of the Alliance to London.

Official preliminary reaction in Ottawa to the new move was that no difficulties are anticipated. The previous Canada-France agreement lapsed some months ago, officials said.

Clash of Memories

BY DISPUTING testimony of the RCMP's Commissioner George McClellan, given under oath at the Munsinger inquiry, Prime Minister Lester Pearson has placed this officer in the embarrassing position of having to justify his evidence.

Apparently Mr. Pearson's recollection of events is at variance with those of an officer of the widest experience in courtroom procedures, a man accustomed to preparing evidence and undoubtedly expert in its presentation.

To appreciate the situation it is necessary to go back to the day that the commissioner was questioned with respect to the prime minister's request for certain information from the RCMP's inactive files.

"I was called to the prime minister's office with Mr. Favreau (then justice minister) . . . I was asked if I had any information on my files of a nature which would indicate impropriety or wrongdoing on the part of any member of the government," he told the inquiry.

Later, he said, he was asked by the prime minister if he had "any information indicating any impropriety or anything of a scandalous nature involving any MP in any party over, I think, the past 10 years."

It was in answer to a question in the House of Commons by Mr. T. C. Douglas, leader of the NDP, as to whether Mr. Pearson's recollections corresponded with those of the commissioner on this occasion that he got the answer:

"No, they do not correspond. Quite on the contrary."

Yet, when Conservative leader John Diefenbaker taxed the government leader with the suggestion that his remarks must be construed to mean that the commissioner's evidence was false, the prime minister cried: "Not true!"

The comment of Creditiste Gilles Grogier in the House of Commons illustrates the understandable reaction to this conflict between the head of the government and the head of the federal police.

"One of the two," he said, "expressed himself poorly or did not tell the whole truth—they cannot both remain in office."

This, of course, is not the first occasion on which the stormy petrel prime minister has been involved in a dispute of this nature. Back in July, 1965, he was in conflict with Chief Justice Frederick Dorian, it will be recalled, as to the date on which he had been informed of the involvement of his parliamentary secretary, Mr. Guy Rouleau, in the Lucien Rivard affair. The chief justice maintained he had been so informed by Mr. Favreau on Sept. 2. Mr. Pearson insisted he had not been aware of the fact until the following Nov. 24.

On that occasion, too, it was the evidence of an RCMP officer, Deputy Commissioner J. R. Lemieux, which was a factor in the disagreement. He testified it was his impression Mr. Pearson had warned Mr. Rouleau that he would be interrogated by the RCMP in advance of the actual interview, which was on Sept. 17.

Ultimately, Chief Justice Dorian agreed to alter his findings as to the date of the prime minister's information on Mr. Rouleau's involvement with the Rivard case. The prime minister was vindicated; but confusion remained in the minds of the observers. Whose memory was at fault in the matter?

In the present situation the same question arises.

A Hearing Needed

SO THAT a quick start may be made on construction of a 325-foot space needle on Belleville Street west of the CPR wharves if approval is granted, city council has asked the Victoria Planning Commission to discuss the commercial project and report next week.

The request hints at a hurried decision, although perhaps there would be less concern if preliminary consideration by aldermen had not been in secret up until the time the legislature was asked to give the city power to sell the site, previously reserved for use as a harbor-side promenade.

The doubts and misgivings that have arisen since the proposed development came to the knowledge of the community are such, however, as to demand careful study and convincing answers. As a permanent feature of the James Bay scenery, would the tower add to or detract from the present and future beauty of the legislative precinct? Would it conflict with plans eventually to span the harbor narrows, almost immediately adjacent, with a high-level bridge? What would happen to it if it were to prove a money-loser? Would this be the best use of the site, would it bring the best price (if indeed the land should be sold) and would it bring in the most tax revenue of any likely use?

It is understandable that those who wish to build the skydeck are eager to get on with it. Nevertheless the public interest demands a scrutiny that not only is careful and thorough but appears to be.

For this reason, city council would be wise to accept the urging of the Capital Region Branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada that it take no action without a public hearing and discussion.

Really, Inspector!

IT WAS strange advice that a police inspector in England gave to women who sit in the back-seats of private cars; presumably also to those who sit alongside the driver.

They should do more "back-seat" driving, he said. Perhaps he was being facetious, or indulging in an oblique reminder to male motorists to improve their driving habits. If he was in earnest, however, he is apt to be fired by his own superiors.

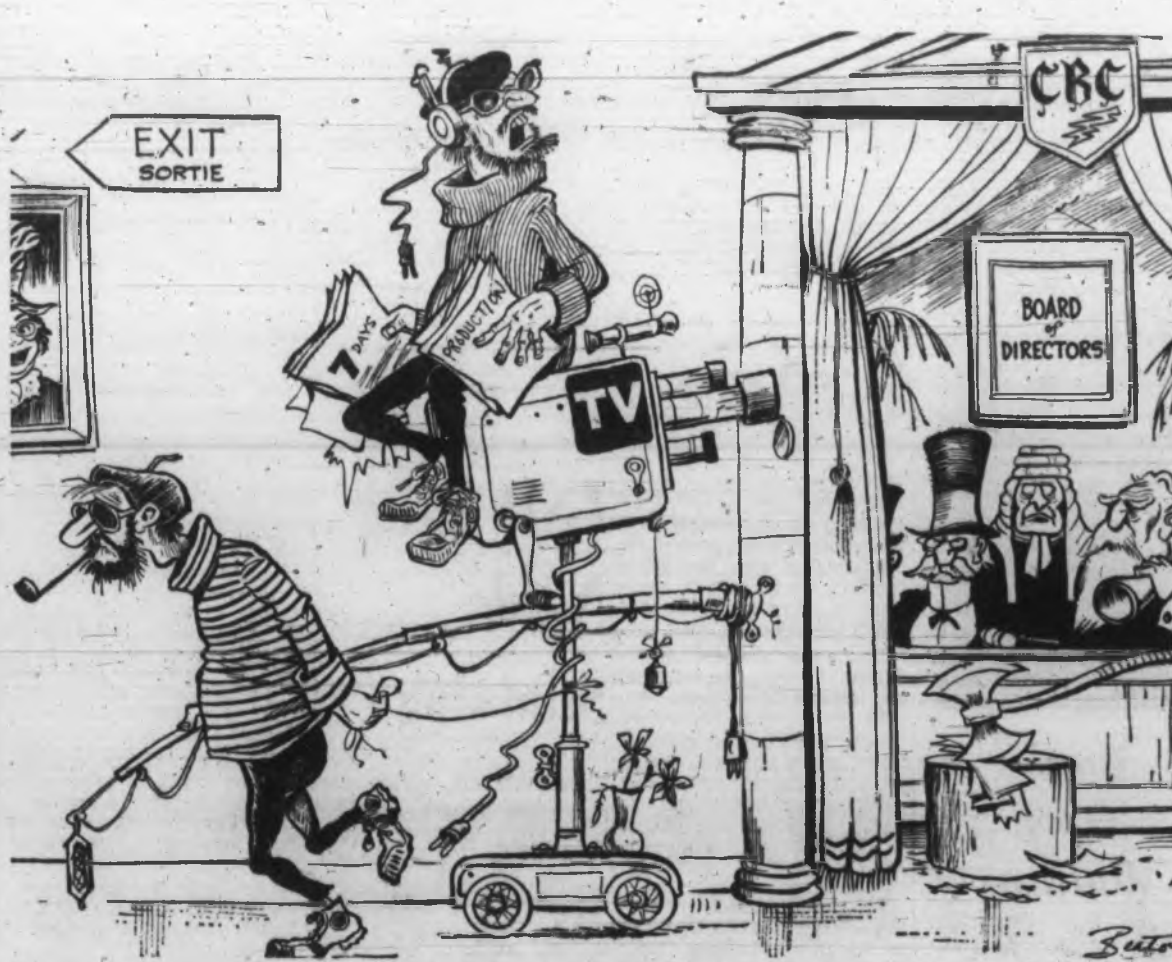

Especially if they suffer from back-seat driving. Not many husbands apparently sit while their wives drive, else no doubt the advice would be aimed at them also.

Advice of this sort runs counter to all the lexicons of safe driving methods, particularly in relation to public vehicles where passengers are warned not to converse with the operator. It will hardly please traffic experts either.

If there is one thing the latter agree on it must surely be that the man at the wheel should be left alone to make his own judgments while on the road, even if there are times when he may day-dream and really needs a little back-seat job to bring him to the alert.

A surfeit of this of course might be enough to take male drivers off the streets entirely.

But in any case the police inspector's idea can have no bearing in Canada, or in Victoria in particular. There are no back-seat drivers among the fair sex in this part of the world. Or are there?

"You'd think they were running the show . . ."

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships,
and sealing wax . . .
By TOM TAYLOR

IT IS an old and comforting adage that what a person doesn't know he doesn't miss, not even when his ears are burning in the manner that, allegedly, indicates someone is speaking about him.

All the better in that case if he doesn't ever learn what was said. If it was in his favor, okay, no matter he never hears the details; if against him then ignorance becomes bliss.

Unawareness can keep the passions in check, you know.

Indeed if the globe at large nowadays hadn't been so shrunk by the wide-spread media of communication that keep us all so well informed we'd probably rest more in peace at night.

When the ancients never heard of upsides in far-off geographical corners until these were long past there was no anxiety to disturb one's mental equilibrium.

But open diplomacy, as it's been called, not so open really when you listen to an external affairs minister circumlocuting all over the dictionary when "explaining" things to the House of Commons, ubers us in to all the disquiet of the human race.

One-worldism has its drawbacks, although nothing to the reality of the illusory "good old days" we think of through rose spectacles. They never were good, as we'd find if transplanted by some alchemy of time back a couple of centuries or so.

Not for the community of people, certainly.

But an experience unknown, or civilization as we enjoy it untrammelled, involves no regret. It is participation in what was previously foreign and beyond acquaintance that induces a change. One can come then to miss what has become known.

So it is, you would read, with some of the Tristan da Cunha families who have gone back again to England because they were infected with modern modes of life. Forced to evacuate their South Atlantic island in 1961 because of volcanic eruption they found refuge in Britain, where for two years they stayed while their homeland was being restored for occupancy. Most of them went home gladly, but they found life had taken on a new look.

They had tasted something new, exciting and different, and made dissatisfied because of the experience. Now some 40 have gone back again to England. Probably more will follow. The quiet, primitive conditions of their upbringing have lost their charm.

We are all aware of similar reactions among newcomers to Canada from the Old World. Homesickness overcomes many of them, and some elect to go back to their birthlands, not as visitors but as residents. These two are far from synonymous.

And in not a few instances they are no sooner in the country they came from, some time only a matter of a few months, than they hanker to return to Canada again. They don't always have the means to duplicate their first migration, either.

It is a case of having changed in outlook, grown accustomed to the mores and habits of another land, and finding such an experience to be preferable after all.

The Tristan Islanders are running true to human form. If this were not so the New World would still be more empty than full, and Canada wouldn't be home to nearly 20 million people.

What you don't know you don't miss, but once having savored it things are apt never to be the same again.

When Rhodesia Meets with Britain

No Room for Manoeuvre

By ROY PERBOTT
from Salisbury, Rhodesia

RHODESIANS received the news that exploratory talks were to begin with British officials with a variety of feelings.

Though they realize they may be prematurely chitchatting at straws, most businessmen here have shown unqualified relief at the chance that the burden of sanctions might be lifted off their backs — just when it was beginning to hurt seriously. Most ordinary people among the white electorate are glad to see this ink of light, though the effects of the economic warfare with Britain had hardly touched the individual yet.

Surprisingly few people show awareness of the fact that since Mr. Wilson intends to stick to his principles as the only basis for conceding independence — it will be extremely difficult for the civil servants to find some common ground on which proper ministerial talks can begin. The chances of a satisfactory outcome to the parleying seem to depend on how each side estimates the damage it has suffered so far.

Encouraged by the morale-building techniques and propaganda of the Smith regime, most people here have not made a realistic appraisal of the harm that sanctions could eventually do to the economy.

But in the last few weeks it has become plain that the toughest, belt-tightening period is just beginning, with a real prospect that many whites would soon be losing their jobs and a number of businesses would have to close down.

Mr. Smith's economic advisers are understood to have warned him of the grimmer times ahead. On the other hand, the general public conviction, whatever the private anxieties of the cabinet — is that Mr. Wilson is in much the same boat, if not a worse one, so that Rhodesia's bargaining strength remains high.

It is believed that Mr. Wilson would never dream to offend South Africa, one of Britain's best trading customers, by getting white oil producers to cut off her supplies. They therefore reason that Rhodesia could stagger on indefinitely with what oil stocks she possesses — probably enough for six months — and continuing supplies of fuel and credit from South Africa.

The background to the initiation talks is still obscure. It seems likely that the Smith regime did not put out feelers through the governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs. The regime knows that it is unlikely in future to be in such a good bargaining position as it is at present, now that sanctions have begun to bite. It is naturally curious to know what terms it could expect to get at this stage with Mr. Wilson stuck in his deep South African quandary.

But the most significant reaction to the news of talks comes from the extreme wings of opinion here. The leaders of the more reactionary section of the Rhodesian Front Party is important because of its numerical strength and its unusually persuasive influence on cabinet policy and attitudes. About 40 per cent of these would be glad to see a complete break with Britain and Rhodesia declared a republic.

If there is to be a negotiated settlement, then these and other die-hard elements in the party would set themselves very firmly against any genuine concessions to African advancement. They simply will not contemplate African majority rule in Rhodesia in their lifetimes, if not for eternity. That, after all, is why they pressed for the seizure of independence. That is why it is hard to avoid seeing a deadlock looming in the talks, before they have properly started.

The influence of the party branches on cabinet policy is such that Mr. Smith, however dominant he looks as leader, would go to the bargaining table with a very limited number of bargaining concessions in his pocket. The farmers, who form the backbone of the party, have all along been threatening to "live on sadza" (a sort of maize porridge) rather than surrender independence. These white supremacist outlook — he has threatened to leave the country if African majority rule ever materialized — would make him a likely choice in any last ditch situation.

Other party members would prefer the claims of Mr. Desmond Lardner-Burke, now minister of justice and law and order. Aged 57, he was born in South Africa and came to Rhodesia in 1933. He is an attorney and company director. Lardner-Burke is stocky in build, has played rugby for Rhodesia and despite the habitual carnation in his buttonhole, carries an air of unyielding pugacity. He is said to have been one of the cabinet's most ardent advocates of the seizure of independence and is much esteemed by the extreme right wing of the party as a no concessions man.

The other leading figure in the tough school is Mr. George Rudland, minister of agriculture. Aged 57 and South African-born, he has lived in Rhodesia most of his life and is a rancher and civil engineer. But his limited political experience would probably make him an outsider for any chance of the leadership.

If the talks get up to ministerial level the eyes of potential rivals, the party bosses and members will closely watch every negotiating move that Mr. Smith makes. The leader will naturally do his best to pass this searching examination.

But even if he were so inclined, one of his difficulties is

The Line of Succession

Some of the soil are supported by the white supremacists in the country who, though they have smaller emergency food resources, strongly resist African competition for apprenticeships and jobs.

If the British government's "five principles" are to be met — particularly the key one about "guaranteed and unimpeded progress to African majority rule" — then it seems clear that there must be some practical change of attitude among these extremists "front-men."

Mr. Smith, more pragmatic, calculating, and flexible than these supporters, is probably the only man who could persuade them that the hard facts of life demand it.

But even if he were so inclined, one of his difficulties is

A small British and Canadian fleet raided the United States naval base at Oswego, N.Y., 152 years ago today—in 1814—and sacked it. The Americans fought well but were outnumbered 1,100 to 500. The victory, planned and led by Commodore Sir James Yeo, re-established British control of Lake Ontario for the remainder of the War of 1812. Loss of control in April enabled American forces to raid York, now Toronto, and burn the fort and public buildings.

Doubts About NATO

Portugal's Salazar An Unhappy Ally

By JERRY BOULTBEE

THIS year Portugal's Prime Minister Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, 76, is being feted as the world's longest-surviving national leader.

He has been a member of the Portuguese government in Lisbon since 1926, and the country's premier since 1932.

Often criticized for exercising dictatorial powers, Salazar is a hard man to question. He rarely leaves his confines in and near Lisbon; has never left the country, and only occasionally condescends to speak to visiting newsmen.

Despite this, he leads the world's last (and largest) remaining empire, controlling vast territories in Africa (Angola, Mozambique and Portuguese Guinea), as well as other holdings in the Atlantic and Far East.

The effectiveness of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been coming under heavy fire in recent months, and Portugal's leader was recently queried on his own views regarding the organization.

Portugal, in fact, was one of the founding member countries of NATO and, as a member, has granted permission to the United States to establish a strategic air base on one of her mid-Atlantic islands in the Azores.

The United States needs this base, and Salazar knows it. Which is certainly one of the reasons why the U.S. has been awfully careful not to criticize Portugal too loudly for its support of an undoubted dictatorship, or the country's continued presence in Africa as a distasteful colonial power.

Salazar takes great pains to point out that Portugal has given NATO "our most loyal co-operation" — limited, he agrees, militarily and financially.

He goes on to talk more generally of NATO, and of Portugal's (his) view of the U.S. position in the organization: "This co-operation (of Portugal's) has entailed risks and sacrifices without adequate compensation."

"A NATO crisis is known to exist . . . regarding its present inadequacy for the aims it was set up to achieve. We must recognize that the inspiration of the organization in 1947, as the defence shield of the 'free world', has now been left behind."

"NATO was set up to meet a concentrated attack on a restricted front, but it has not developed or been able to adapt itself to the world-wide risks that the 'free world' has had to face for a long time now."

"The catastrophic results of this process are quite evident and they have come about because some, or even the majority, of the members have not found support, or at least understanding, in the alliance, but have seen it serve as a cover for a policy that ignores their interests or is even, at best, hostile to them."

The premier had some harsh words for the U.S.: "The U.S. complains bitterly. It is forced to act as world policeman. We sympathize with this complaint and the weight of the liabilities this policy imposes on the great American people."

"At the same time, however, it should be said this was a natural conclusion to events since on occasion America, due to improvised, hasty, political decisions, has abandoned and even antagonized its allies — who would otherwise be the other 'policemen'."

"I do not think the United States should be surprised if it is not practicable at once to contribute to the destruction of the positions of their allies in the world, and yet to expect their support for American policy on its own positions."

"Nor can we really understand why any surprise has been felt."

"Since the world now swings between power blocs, and considering that a policy has been adopted the aims of which seem to have been (its results certainly have been) to drive the Western powers from their positions, it is quite obvious that the vacuum thus created can only subsequently be filled by Communist forces or by the U.S."

***

To avoid the former alternative, the U.S. are forced to accept the latter; and this obligation could have been avoided, clearly, if the policy adopted had been different.

"Some accuse the U.S. of considering it would be possible, and even nationally advantageous, to replace their allies everywhere, politically and economically."

"We do not support this charge, but in view of the results we might legitimately conclude that they seek to rid themselves of some of their present responsibilities."

"The harm has been done — and we can only hope that it can be remedied, at least in some respects, and that the policy will not be carried any further."

All of which appears to be only another way of saying the U.S. is so eager to pour dollars into the pockets of her friends that she'll stand on her friends' toes in order to do it.

Despite U.S. warnings of little Portugal — her interest in not only keeping NATO together, but in keeping the Azores base — she is still made liable.

At least Portugal's prime minister feels he has placed his finger on the core of ills that are currently eating away at the North Atlantic alliance.

Site of the Games

A View of Munich

By NEAL ASCHERSON from Berlin

ANYONE who knows Munich, of almost primitively conservative Bavaria, Munich is a Social-Democrat stronghold, and the magnificent, concealed city on the Bavarian plateau, will be delighted that the International Olympic Committee has chosen it as the site for the 1972 Olympic Games.

And nobody, naturally, is more delighted than the man who more than anyone is responsible for winning the city this tremendous burden and commitment. Mayor Hans-Jochen Vogel.

Through the hectic and sometimes ludicrous lobbying of international mayors in Rome, Vogel played his part shrewdly. Montreal and Salt Lake City had already offered all the Olympic officials and competitors free board and lodging, and he had to overcome the grave obstacle of the committee's misgivings about Germany. Not only was there a degree of general prejudice, but the squalid recurrent rows over flags and status between East and West Germans in the past have conflicted with the efforts of the committee president, Mr. Avery Brundage, to keep politics out of the Games.

The news of Vogel's triumph was round Munich in a flash. There was a rush to the beer halls to celebrate, then some second thoughts. The outlay will be huge. On the Oberwiesenthal, only a few minutes from the centre, the main stadium for 100,000 people must be built; a covered swimming-pool to seat 10,000 spectators, an Olympic village for the athletes, 10,000 more beds in new hotels.

"Even if the government pays most," said a building worker, "we in Munich will have to pay a bit, and that's too much."

Another passer-by commented: "Now our last little remnant of cosiness (Gemutlichkeit) will be ruthlessly uprooted."

But there is no doubt that this will remain Mayor Vogel's supreme moment. Like Ancient Rome, Munich expects the world to bring it constant homage and diversion. Queen Elizabeth's visit last year was considered very satisfying; the Games will be better still. Vogel's name in Munich chronicles is secure.

He is a pink, plumpish, bustling man, with spectacles and bushy dark hair, who looks far younger than his age — which is only 40. In the plateau

Versions Differ In Texts

OTTAWA (CP) — Following are partial texts of the accounts by Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday and RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan last Thursday about the handling of the Gerda Munsinger security file.

Commissioner McClellan testified Thursday before the royal commission on the Munsinger case about a meeting he had Dec. 2, 1964, with the prime minister. He said that was the day he delivered a file on the case to Mr. Pearson.

Following are excerpts of Commissioner McClellan's evidence as recorded in the stenographic transcript of the hearing:

C.F. H. Carson, Conservative counsel: Mr. McClellan, have you . . . fixed the date when the brief or memorandum was received back from the prime minister?

Mr. McClellan: Yes, sir. The last of April, 1965.

Mr. Carson: I was called to the prime minister's office with Mr. Favreau (then justice minister) and I believe Mr. Gordon Robertson, the secretary of the Privy Council, was present.

I was asked if I had any information on my files of a nature which indicate impropriety or wrongdoing on the part of any member of the government.

Mr. Carson: Which government?

Mr. McClellan: The government.

John L. O'Brien, commission counsel: The present government.

Mr. McClellan: The present government. I was then asked, after I had answered this question, if I had any information indicating any impropriety or anything of a scandalous nature involving any member of Parliament in any party over, I think, the last 10 years. I think was the expression used.

I was of course aware that the matters we are discussing today were in part at least subject to gossip and in answer to a direct question from the prime minister, I said, "Yes, sir." I was asked what it was and I referred to this specific file.

Mr. Carson: The Munsinger matter?

Mr. McClellan: Yes, sir, and the prime minister's words were to the effect: "Well, I had better see it."

This, after some pause and some thought in silence, he said, "I think I had better see it."

Mr. Carson: Thank you very much. That is all I have to ask.

Following are excerpts of Mr. Pearson's speech in the Commons Tuesday as recorded in the record of debate:

Mr. Pearson: . . . The RCMP were used exclusively in the investigations for the legitimate purposes of security. They had no other purpose in their actions, and it would have been inforable if there had been any other purpose.

But the RCMP were not asked by me or anyone else to provide information to the government as to the past conduct of all members of Parliament generally. That would indeed be an indefensible and shocking request which would go against all the rights of Parliament and the rights of the individual. It would be quite improper.

Members' Conduct

First we should ask ourselves — and have, indeed, asked ourselves: Has the RCMP ever been ordered by the prime minister or anyone on behalf of the prime minister to inquire into the private lives and activities of any member of Parliament? The answer is, no.

Second, did the prime minister keep in his possession or in the files of his own office any report by the RCMP or anyone else on the Munsinger case? The answer is, no.

Third, did the prime minister have any knowledge of any kind that the name Munsinger was to be mentioned in any debate in this House? Again, the answer is, no.

Fourth, did the government, as the amendment before this House alleges, have the RCMP provide information to the government as to the past conduct of all members of Parliament? The answer, Mr. Speaker, is, no.

T. C. Douglas, NDP leader: . . . I am asking the prime minister if the notes which he has kept confirm the statement which was made by the commissioner when he said: "I was then asked if I had any information indicating any impropriety or anything of a scandalous nature involving any member of Parliament in any party over the last 10 years." I want to ask the prime minister if that corresponds to the request which the prime minister made to the commissioner, according to the notes which he has retained?

Mr. Pearson: No, they do not correspond, Mr. Speaker — quite the contrary. Unlike the commissioner — and I am not quarrelling, I have no right to quarrel with his evidence, I am not sure I should even comment on it — but if the commissioner is referring to personal improprieties and personal scandals, there is nothing to confirm that. If he was talking about scandal in the sense of the Rivard scandal . . . I was looking for that kind of scandal in relation to members of Parliament with government departments and their intervention on behalf of dubious elements.

Andes Guerrillas Face Cleanup

By FRANCIS B. KENT
The Los Angeles Times

BOGOTA, Colombia — In close cooperation with elements of the Venezuelan army, Colombia's armed forces reportedly are accelerating a campaign to wipe out the last of the guerrillas holed up in the Andes mountains north of here.

Colombian military informants indicate that special units of counter insurgency troops now in training not far from Bogota will soon join the operation.

The guerrillas, ideologically divided and estimated to number not more than 200, are concentrated in mountain redoubts because of diminishing popular support. They are said to be short of both money and supplies.

Whether Colombian and Venezuelan forces will actually link up and seek out the guerrillas in a joint effort was not made clear. It is known, however, that the two countries have been sharing intelligence relating to the guerrilla question since late last year.

The decision to co-operate was made by Presidents Guillermo Leon Valencia of Colombia and Raul Leone of Venezuela when they met last December on a barge anchored in the Araucario, which in one area forms their international frontier.

According to some sources here, there may now be an agreement to permit troops of either country to cross the frontier if in hot pursuit of fleeing guerrillas.

Both Colombia and Venezuela, along with Peru, have been plagued by political insurgents almost from the time of Fidel Castro's takeover in Cuba. The insurgent bands in all three countries are believed to have received money and arms from Cuba.

For a time the guerrillas moved about openly, raiding farms and frequently descending on major cities for kidnappings and terrorist forays. Since late last year, however, their activities have been largely confined to rural areas.

In all three countries the guerrilla movement has been weakened by political bickering, with some elements favoring the tough, revolutionary line of Communist China and others advocating the less violent approach suggested in the Soviet Union.

As a result of this dissension, plus well-organized anti-guerrilla campaigns in the three countries, the terrorist threat has subsided considerably. None of the three governments any longer regards the movement as a serious threat.

In January, when a young Catholic priest went into the hills and announced that he had joined the "national liberation army" of Colombia, there were strong fears that he might be able to unify the rebel elements.

Soon afterward, however, army troops broke into the guerrilla stronghold and killed the priest, Camilo Torres. Since that time the insurgent movement in Colombia has been even less of a threat.

Vancouver Urged to Reclaim Needed Graves

VANCOUVER (CP) — Unless the report to be submitted today by health officials, urges the city to reclaim for reuse the graves in the city which are being buried in the city, the city will soon have no room in about 65,000 graves at Mountain View Cemetery in the southern part of the city.

The report, to be submitted today by the city and covers 105 acres. About 90,000 persons have been buried there since the cemetery opened in 1888 and Dr. Joseph Gayton, senior medical health officer, says there are only 10,000 to 12,000 plots left. Last year the city lost $155,000 on Mountain View and sold 600 plots.

It recommends that the city seek authority from the provincial Public Utilities Commission to "reclaim grave space used for over 50 years for which no grave space in 20 years if the same family, or by others of the family, is no longer interested in the plot," said Dr. Gayton.

"The principle involved is the plot," said Dr. Gayton. "I suggest that the present system is unnecessary and wasteful," he said. "The city will run out of re-used by members of the must adopt a lease system."

English the city will run out of re-used by members of the must adopt a lease system."

Exploding Sewer Traps Four Men

TORONTO (CP) — Four screaming workmen clawed their way out of a storm sewer Wednesday after the project was blasted by an explosion and caved in.

Two others were trapped for about 40 minutes but emerged from the sewer about two blocks away from the explosion. All six were taken to hospital where three were in serious condition with burns.

District Fire Chief Thomas Wilson said the explosion was caused by "gas of some sort," perhaps a pocket of methane gas which could form naturally in the swampy ground.

SPARK Firemen found that a spark from an electric wire providing light in the sewer had ignited the gas.

POOLEY ISLAND AND RODERICK ISLAND—36 CLAIMS—2,000 ACRES

The Company reports that Cannex Aerial Explorations have completed the line cutting at the Pine Point claims and an induced polarization should start early in May. The claims are located in the N.E. Section of Pine Point near Hays Landing—there is a secondary road running through the property which connects with the main highway to Dawson Landing.

POOLEY ISLAND AND RODERICK ISLAND—36 CLAIMS—2,000 ACRES

Work is to resume again on this property this week. The Company has let the contract to diamond drill on the anomalies indicated by Mr. John Sirola, geophysicist, who has completed an I.P. Survey of this property. The drilling program is under the supervision of Mr. James P. Elwell, the consulting engineer, and to date the five previous drill holes have all shown copper mineralization.

Spencer Fed Information to Russians, Says Report

Justice Minister Cardin not to hold an inquiry.

The prime minister's reversal, following an unprecedented personal telephone call from Ottawa to Spencer in Vancouver, led to reports Mr. Cardin would quit the cabinet. But he remained following caucus and cabinet meetings in which the matter apparently was ironed out.

FOUND DEAD

Mr. Justice Wells was then appointed. But just four days before he was to open hearings in Vancouver on whether Spencer had been fairly treated in being dismissed without pension after some 18 or 19 years of service, Spencer was found dead in his Vancouver home, slumped over a kitchen table.

He had been dead for some days and for a time mystery surrounded the cause of his death. But a coroner's jury finally decided it was due to natural causes—a thrombosis that followed by about a year a major lung cancer operation.

FIRST ATTENTION

In the transcript of the three-day hearings held in Ottawa, Assistant Commissioner Kelly told the hearing it was his responsibility to keep abreast of all security matters "arising out of subversion and espionage in Canada."

He said Spencer first came to the attention of the RCMP "somewhere between June 5 and June 9, 1956, when he was seen to contact a Russian intelligence officer by the name of Afanasiev in Vancouver...."

"The next time Spencer came to our attention as the investigation shows was on the 8th of October, 1960 when he met in Ottawa two Russian intelligence officers by the name of Lev Burdakov and Rem Krassinkov."

FURTHER MEETINGS

The assistant commissioner went on to relate further meetings with the Russians in Ottawa and Vancouver with the seventh and final meeting known to the RCMP taking place Feb. 16, 1963.

The assistant commissioner said Spencer was given the tasks of finding out about some 30 farms for sale in the Surrey area of B.C. close to the U.S. border. Asked by Mr. Robinette what significance this might have from an espionage standpoint Mr. Kelly said:

"We thought that this task was very significant and by virtue of previous knowledge of Russian intelligence service requirements, this assignment to Mr. Spencer concerning farms in the Vancouver area particularly suggested acquisition of suitable property for the establishment of a Russian intelligence service illegal network."

SUGGESTED RESIDENCY

"The location of the farm so close to the U.S. border suggested that the illegal residency, that is, the home of the illegal agent, would be operating espionage agents based in the U.S.A. This was the significance we saw in the purchase of property in this area."

The assistant commissioner said the investigation showed Spencer also had been assigned to provide information to the Russians concerning the hiring of labor and suggesting use of newspaper help wanted columns.

"What significance has that from an intelligence or espionage standpoint," asked Mr. Robinette.

CONSIDERABLE VALUE

Mr. Kelly: "The mechanics of obtaining hired help in Canada through the newspaper or unemployment offices would be of considerable value to the illegal agent that I have already described, and in this case suggested that hired help might be sought by the illegal resident that we suspected as going to be provided with the facilities such as the farms referred to that Spencer was providing."

The assistant commissioner said Spencer also was instructed to increase the flow of mail to his home by writing more letters to relatives. He was instructed he would receive "test letters" on which a corner would be cut off the stamp and these test letters were to be returned unopened.

MADE LETTER TEST

This, Mr. Kelly said, was to throw away any suspicion about Spencer's mail increasing unduly over a particular period. The test letters, to be returned unopened, were to determine for the Russians whether such letters were opened or censored by the post office or not.

But, said the assistant commissioner, Spencer did not carry out this assignment well. Of three test letters sent to him he inadvertently opened two of them.

Spencer was also told to get information about ethnic groups in Canada, including Ukrainians. The objective of this, the assistant commissioner said, was so Soviet bloc intelligence could penetrate these groups and "collect information concerning emigre organizations connected with the group."

ASCERTAIN VIEWS

"The main purpose," he said, "is to ascertain the views of these groups and to see whether the views are hostile to the Soviet Union...."

"The Soviet intelligence service then has the responsibility of neutralizing anti-Soviet activity of the organization or organizations concerned through some form of disruptive tactics, including character assassination."

"The third point of interest is that the Russian intelligence service, or any other offensive intelligence service operating in Canada, has the responsibility of recruiting emigres through coercive measures, if necessary, and that is threats or reprisals to relatives residing in the home country and then use these recruits for intelligence collection purposes."

TO SUPPLY INFORMATION

Mr. Kelly said Spencer was also given the task of supplying information about mail stoppage and the interception of mail by the post office, since the Russians "used the mail for the passage of instructions and intelligence it is naturally concerned about the procedures used by the investigation department of the post office in examining mail, if any such exists."

"Canada-U.S. border-crossing procedures was also another task given Spencer, the assistant commissioner said, including movement both ways through customs and immigration."

Spencer was asked to get photographs of the city of Vancouver, information in auto courts, maps of roads of the Vancouver and U.S. border areas and descriptions of local clothing and general customs and fashions.

TRANS-MOUNTAIN LINE

This Spencer had done, the assistant commissioner said, and passed the requested information to the Russians.

He was also asked to provide "complete details of the Trans-Mountain oil pipeline," main oil line supply from the northeastern B.C. fields to the B.C. Lower Mainland and points in the northwest United States. The Russians also wanted information about a laughtier houses and apartment houses "and the important point here is that it was to be those which no longer were in existence."

He was to get information about drivers' licenses and identity cards and was instructed "to take information from headstones in graveyards, stones, they could send some to Canada under the name and in the age group of the dead person."

As to the pipeline information, Mr. Kelly said this information would "fit into Russian intelligence service sabotage requirements if and when they thought this were necessary."

RCMP Sgt. Maurice G. Low, also examined during the Ottawa hearing, told of meeting Spencer with another RCMP officer and going to his Vancouver home. Among things they seized there was a postcard from an Ottawa hotel, on the back of which was written "Sat 729." He said Spencer later explained that this Sat 729 meant that he was to "meet his contact at 7 on Saturday and if they did not get together at that time they were to meet at 9."

Sgt. Low said at first Spencer denied going to Ottawa under the assumed names of McCann

McNeil or having anything to do with Russian agents. This was before he made a full statement.

Sgt. Low said Spencer first became "associated" with the Russians through a man representing the Russian embassy whom he met on the Vancouver docks in 1957 or 1958.

About two years later he flew Trans-Mountain pipeline, and to Ottawa with a man because border crossing procedures.

he wanted to keep on the good side of Russian embassy officials in the hope of getting a trip to Russia.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan. If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if you're carrying pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blatt disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful and active.

Wilson Gives U.K. Doctors More Money

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

LONDON (PC) — Britain's family doctors, who carry the main burden of the state-run National Health Service, were offered a new pay deal by Prime Minister Wilson in Parliament Wednesday.

Wilson offered the 20,800 doctors — their number has dwindled from 23,000 in recent years — increases averaging about £20 (£80) a week, approximately one-third more than present salaries. Dentists and hospital doctors share in the increase.

The Labor government accepted the recommendation of an independent review body that to, among other things, halt the flow of doctors to such countries as the United States, Canada and Australia.

NEXT YEAR — But Wilson told the doctors — who caused a sensation last year by threatening to go on strike — that they will have to wait until 1967 for the full benefit of the boost. He said:

"In the light both of current economic difficulties and of their general policy for prices, we have decided that they would not be justified in implementing an increase of this magnitude in a single step."

"They accordingly propose that the recommendations should be implemented in two stages. The first stage would apply retrospectively from April 1, 1966, and would be designed to increase net income by about half the full amount, or rather more than 15 per cent."

BACKDATED — "The second stage completing the implementation of the recommendation would take effect from April 1, 1967."

This means that family doctors will receive an average £500 annually, backdated to April 1 and another £500 next year but the proposal did not by any means receive unanimous approval.

"My first impressions are that it is not a generous award," said Dr. Sidney Greaves, general secretary of the 5,000-member Medical Practitioners Union.

"I am very concerned it is being done in this way in view of the large number of GPs who have been waiting for the award before deciding whether or not to migrate. This may well lead them going."

In Simplest Terms

Law and the Driver

Many motorists are not aware of the clauses of the R.C. Motor Vehicle Act. For their benefit, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce traffic safety committee has prepared a list of traffic regulations with explanations where needed.

Not included are clauses which refer specifically to professional drivers. Serving on the committee are Arthur Sharp, representing the superintendent of motor vehicles; Kenneth Reid, Victoria traffic engineer, and traffic specialists from all area police departments and the RCMP. Chairman is Cmdr. J. M. Leeming.

SECTION 128 (4) (a)—Yellow at Intersection

When a yellow light alone is exhibited at an intersection by a traffic-control signal, following the exhibition of a green light.

a) the driver of a vehicle approaching the intersection and facing the yellow light shall cause the vehicle to stop before entering the marked crosswalk on the near side of the intersection, or if there is no such marked crosswalk, then before entering the intersection, unless such a stop cannot be made in safety.

Comment

A driver facing a yellow light has a decision to make: to stop before reaching the near side crosswalk of the intersection or to continue through the intersection with the yellow light. There are several factors determining the length of time a yellow light is displayed, e.g., the yellow light will be displayed longer in a 50-mile-an-hour zone than in a 30-mile-an-hour zone. There are several factors the driver must take into consideration: Condition of the road surface, his speed, general driving conditions, proximity of vehicle following, visibility, etc.

In view of the above, if the driver has sufficient time to safely clear the intersection before the light changes, he may legally do so. However, if he fails to clear the intersection before the light changes to red, he has violated the law.

If the driver has time to clear the intersection before the red light appears, he should do so. The driver must take into consideration his distance from the intersection before deciding to brake, so that he does not become an obstruction to cross traffic, by stopping in the intersection.

A driver should know at all times if the vehicle following is dangerously close. An unnecessary sudden stop could very easily result in a rear-end collision.

Natural Gas Piped West

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Northern Gas Co. Ltd. will build a 430-mile pipeline to Prince Rupert from Prince George, giving west-central British Columbia its first access to natural gas.

PNG President Anthony C. Rooney said the project will cost about $30,000,000.

JULY START

Mr. Rooney's announcement said the company filed its intentions with the provincial government Tuesday. Plans Alice Arm and Stewart, B.C., call for construction to begin the announcement said.

The announcement said more than 300 men will be employed in constructing the 12-inch diameter line, which will spur from the main Westcoast Transmission line near Summit Lake, north of Prince George. The line will travel westward to Kitimat and Prince Rupert.

The company, organized in 1965 by Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd. and Great Northern Gas

Utilities, also plans further extensions with the provincial government into Fort St. James, government Tuesday. Plans Alice Arm and Stewart, B.C.,

call for construction to begin the announcement said.

Students Inspect Future

An expected 40 secondary school students from all over Vancouver Island will converge on the University of Victoria Saturday to begin an experiment in liaison between campus and high school.

The event is the first Vancouver Island Student Leaders Seminar, sponsored by the university student council and the campus branch of the Canadian Union of Students.

One Grade 11 student and one from Grade 12 have been invited from every senior high school on the Island.

The turnout of 40 students represents an almost unanimous response, CUS chairman Brian Smith said Wednesday.

The Grade 12 students, all of them expecting to enter the university next fall, will hear about campus student government in B.C. and will begin organizing September's Fresh Week which introduces new students to the university.

Grade 11 delegates will discuss student government in high school and organize liaison with the university next winter.

In a letter to senior high school principals, campus student council president Stephen Bigsby said the council wants to encourage the maximum number of qualified high school students to enter university.

A member of Victoria's planning department has been appointed planner for North Vancouver.

J. A. DeJong, 33, will start his new job June 1. His appointment was ratified by North Vancouver council Monday night. Salary will be $9,744 a year.

Speaking Here

Laurentide Finance Corp. vice-chairman Peter Paul Saunders will speak to the sales and marketing executive club of Victoria at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel at 6:15 p.m. Monday.

Any international agreements concerning net fishing in Juan de Fuca Strait will be discussed only as part of a larger discussion on catch-sharing between Canada and the United States.

Official information received Tuesday by sports fishermen and marina operator Bob Wright from Fisheries area director W. R. Hargreaves disclosed that two problems were under discussion at closed meetings between the United States and Canada.

● Interception of salmon in the northern area — the southeast corner of the Alaska Panhandle off Noyes Island.

● The need for additional conservation measures for pink salmon.

Mr. Wright received the information following a story in Tuesday's Colonist in which he said removal of net fishing in Juan de Fuca Strait would be the best thing to happen to sports fishing here in the last 20 years.

MORE SALMON
"The Canadian view was that Canada should be getting a larger proportion of the salmon bound for the Fraser River," according to an announcement from Ottawa.

"It is realized that there has been co-operation between Canada and the United States in build up runs to the Fraser River, but it is necessary to realize the cost to Canada has been several times greater than the cost of this joint effort," said the Ottawa announcement.

NOYES ISLAND
It was in connection with getting a greater share of the Fraser River pink salmon run that Canada was prepared to consider doing away with commercial fishing all the way into the strait, Mr. Wright said.

A story from Seattle Tuesday said Canada was insisting that American fishermen stop intercepting what it said were Canadian-bound salmon off Noyes Island.

NO PROOF
The U.S. argued there was no solid proof that substantial numbers of Canadian fish were being taken there, and said it had historic fishing rights in the area.

The story said talks had been so fruitless that Canada was prepared to move its surfline out to permit Canadian fishermen to spread their nets on the high seas.

Carpenters' Strike Near?

Unless new proposals are brought forward by the employers, carpenters in B.C. could be on strike by the end of May, Victoria Labor Council was told Wednesday.

John Schibill, Carpenters' Union delegate to the council, said negotiations had broken down completely at a meeting held Monday with employers and a government conciliation officer.

"We presented the result of our ballot of members, showing their 90-per-cent support for shorter working hours," said Mr. Schibill.

REFUSED
"The conciliation officer agreed that we came forward with proposals that could break the deadlock," he said.

"The employers, however, refused to discuss any of the points."

'System Adequate'

Victoria Denies Sewer Pledge

Victoria has never committed itself to any sewer program, acting mayor Geoffrey Edgellow said Wednesday, commenting on a report that a major system for Saanich Peninsula, Colwood and Greater Victoria would cost $23,000,000.

A team of engineers and adviser specialists, led by City Engineer James Garnett, has been studying the district's sewage disposal needs for more than a year, working on data obtained by a Vancouver engineering firm which has done field work for the study.

A report is due at the end of May.

COSTS SHARED

Acting Mayor Edgellow stressed that Victoria shared in the costs of the study because the city felt it was in the best interests of the community, but had never promised to share in the cost of building the system.

"We have an adequate sewer system, paid for by our own taxpayers, and our system is nowhere near capacity. In fact, other municipalities are using sections of our system," he said.

It was unlikely that the city would consent to share in the costs of a new district system before its own network reached capacity, the acting mayor added.

Bid on New School Lower Than Estimate

School trustees Wednesday night awarded a contract for construction of a new Reynolds Street school at a cost less than that originally estimated.

Farmer Construction Ltd. won the contract with a bid of $908,973. Reynolds Street site construction had been estimated at $918,720.

Other tenders opened were $990,916 from E. J. Hunter Ltd., $972,500 from Burns and Dutton Ltd., $956,936 from Bird Construction Ltd., $953,721 from G. H. Wheaton.

Campbell Appoints Two

Reeves to Study Direct-Sale Law

The provincial government has asked municipal governments throughout British Columbia for guidance in the next major overhaul of the Municipal Act.

It has also asked them to help draw up uniform regulations for the licensing and bonding of door-to-door salesmen.

CURTIS, MORTON
Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Wednesday Reeves Hugh Curtis of Saanich and Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan, had been appointed as a two-man committee to bring in recommendations for a Direct Sellers Act during the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in September.

The minister also said he and deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown will hold a two-day conference in Victoria Monday and Tuesday with the UBCM executive to discuss the next revision of the Municipal Act.

Mr. Campbell said: "I have asked the UBCM to undertake a complete review of the Municipal Act, under the theme 'Local Government Machinery for the Seventies' and they have agreed to carry it out."

The revisions will probably not be ready for passage by the legislature until 1968, although minor amendments to the act are still likely to be made by his department during the next session, he said.

The problem which Reeves Curtis and Morton will be tackling will be how to eliminate the undesirable features currently involved in direct selling.

They will have to walk a tightrope of compromise, worrying on one hand about protection of householders from unscrupulous salesmen, and on the other how to make it practical for legitimate salesmen to enter the field.

At the present time, for example, there is no bonding of salesmen and no machinery for establishing ethics in the selling field, while municipal licence fees range from $10 to $500.

Whatever recommendations they bring back to the UBCM will also have to cover a wide range of door-to-door salesmen whose wares include everything from pots and pans to educational books such as encyclopedias.

Car-Testing
Victoria Labor Council Wednesday condemned use of untrained mechanics at government motor vehicle testing stations.

Council heard that a recent test held in Victoria employed a store clerk to test headlights and brakes. He had taken a 48-hour crash course in motor vehicle testing and was considered trained for the job.

"Un-ion-qualified mechanics should be used for this job. There are lives at stake and we must be sure that properly trained people are being used," said secretary Harry Anderson.

"However, I feel that too much emphasis is placed on the mechanics of the vehicle. Too many accidents are put down to mechanical defects when in fact it is usually the person behind the wheel who is at fault," he added.

"The whole matter of vehicle testing must be looked into, because it looks as though these testing stations are to be the coming thing."

Labor Decries 'Right to Starve'

'Parasite' Union Blasted

By TIM GLOVER
The Justice and Liberty Foundation, described as a trade union extension of the Dutch Reformed Church, was pictured at a meeting of Victoria Labor Council Wednesday as a "fascist allied, parasite" group that has no idea of the principle of organized labor.

The labor council will ask the B.C. Federation of Labor to protest the action of the foundation in presenting a brief to the B.C. cabinet condemning the principle of union shops.

"How else would we have won our labor goals than by the basis of one-union negotiations?" asked council delegate E. T. Staley.

Mr. Staley, described the group as a "small fascist-allied group who have not seen how democracy works and do not intend to find out."

Harry Anderson, labor council secretary, said that the group's brief to the cabinet could be described not as a "right-to-work" law but a "right-to-starve" measure.

"We negotiate on the same bases that we are taxed. We might object to taxes, but everyone is taxed for the benefit of all," said Mr. Staley.

"This group that went to the cabinet is a type of parasite group. They want to receive the benefits without having to pay for them," he said.

"We have survived these parasite groups before and I don't believe that this small group is going to have that great an effect on B.C."

Mr. Staley added that the

Phone Bills to Slide If Income Increases

OTTAWA (CP)—The two biggest telephone companies in Canada were told Wednesday that if their earnings continue to go up their subscriber rates will have to come down.

That, in essence, was the message in two massive judgments handed down by the Board of Transport Commissioners after a year-long study of the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada and the British Columbia Telephone Co.

In each case the board set a new formula for establishing permissive earnings—between 6.2 per cent and 6.6 per cent of total capital investment.

LIMIT HIT

Then, noting that both companies had reached the upper limit of that range in their 1965 earnings, the board stated: "Should the company's earnings exceed that maximum, the board will require the company to furnish the board with its proposals for reductions in the rate structure designed to bring the company's earnings back within the permissible range we have found to be reasonable at this time."

Stocks of both companies dropped in price on the Toronto Stock Exchange Wednesday. Bell slipped almost $1 to $53.87 a share and B.C. Telephone by $3.50 to $69.

Neither Bell, which operates in Ontario and Quebec, nor B.C. Telephone has had a general rate increase since 1958. There have been upward adjustments, however, in various communities to reflect service increases and long-distance rates have twice been reduced.

60 PER CENT

Bell has about 4,500,000 telephones in service, its B.C. counterpart about 700,000. Together they account for 60 per cent of all telephones in Canada.

Both had record earnings last year—$86,525,000 in the case of Bell and $13,700,000 for B.C. Telephone.

In recent years both have been earning in excess of their old permissive levels—set 16 years ago at $2.43 per share for Bell and on a complicated cost formula for B.C. Telephone. This factor prompted the board 14 months ago to announce a review of the firms' financial situation.

HEARINGS
During the lengthy public hearings that followed, the companies argued for the establishment of a percentage formula to govern permissive earnings. Bell asked for seven per cent of total capital investment as a floor, with no ceiling. B.C. Tele-

Jail Overrules Job

A man who got $88.65 in goods and cash with three worthless cheques was sentenced in central magistrate's court Wednesday to eight months in jail. Raymond Slater, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to all charges. He had been found guilty last week of vagrancy and was sentenced to a month in jail, the terms to be concurrent.

JOB AHEAD

Slater got $17.27 worth of clothing from Alexander Men's Wear, 2406 Beacon, April 20, work clothes worth $46.38 from Spencer's Store, 1110 Government, April 9, and $25 in cash from Woodward's, 3125 Douglas, April 2, court was told.

Slater told Magistrate William Ostler he wished to make restitution. He said he had a job to go to the next day.

Magistrate Ostler said Slater had a record of previous false pretences charges, and jailed him.

Magistrate Ostler differed in opinion with colleague Magistrate J. A. Byers in giving judgment in the case of Daniel Hilton, 1540 Charlton, who had pleaded not guilty to dangerous driving.

Magistrate Ostler noted that Magistrate Byers had ruled in a written judgment in the trial last week of Florence Stoltz that mens rei (intent) was not an essential ingredient of the offence.

Magistrate Ostler said he was unable to follow the decision of his colleague.

HIGH SPEEDS

Hilton was convicted and fined $300. His licence was suspended.

Court was told that Hilton, driving a 1965 car, was followed along Patricia Bay Highway shortly after midnight April 27 by a Saanich police car.

Hilton hit speeds of up to 90 miles an hour before turning off at Piedmont, Constable William Nixon said.

NOT AFRAID

He continued at speeds from 30 to 50 miles an hour through residential streets before stopping in front of a house on Del Monte.

A passenger, Steven Brown, said he had no fears for his safety during the drive and said Hilton was in complete control of the car.

Harvey Hanes, 5037 Rocky Point, was sentenced to one day in jail and placed on a $250 good behavior bond for six months.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Because he came out swinging the other day one cannot say that he threw a curve or was caught off base but I do think that Alderman Michael Griffin did strike out.

Ald. Griffin came out with a bat on his shoulder and swung away at those who had the audacity to criticize the latest city hall shift which is to leave the rebuilt Royal Athletic Park without lights.

"A self-centred, noisy, selfish and ungrateful minority oblivious to the needs of others" was among the things that the irate alderman said about the dismaying spokesmen who bemoaned the decision to leave the lighting system to an indefinite future.

He pointed out that $600,000 was being spent to build a new sports complex, and that it included the sum of $11,000 for turfing and $13,000 for a modern sprinkling system to help provide a good playing surface.

This, he intimated rather forcefully, is quite an effort on the part of the city and, on the face of it, so it is. But only on the face of it.

That $600,000 is a lot of money even in these days is something anyone will concede but in view of what Victoria has done for its young citizens in the way of playing fields in all the years that have gone before, it doesn't impress here.

It is quite probable that no community of its size in Canada has done less in this respect than Victoria. The record is a dismal one.

Let's look at the situation as regards a quality park. In the 22 years my job has taken me to what has passed for one, it has either been to draughty, decrepit Macdonald Park, which has never had anything except a rather good playing surface, or to the "old lady" of Caledonia Avenue, Royal Athletic Park.

During the war years, Athletic Park was reasonably adequate but it steadily fell into disrepair as it became outmoded. During our years in professional baseball we often wondered if the roof-top press box would blow away and how teams made do in the unsanitary-looking cubicles which passed as dressing rooms.

Nor only have we not had a first-class park for the past two decades but our secondary playing fields have been too few and have provided too little in the way of facilities for a rapidly-growing population.

Nor does it end there. Victoria, which has a climate which encourages outdoor activities, has always had a negative attitude towards sports. Where, other, and smaller cities, gave their returning champions a hero's welcome we almost always ignored them officially. With the balmy climate in the country we still have no public outdoor swimming pool and we would have nothing at all had we not fallen heir to the ancient Crystal Garden last year. Our only really major expenditure for sports in the last two decades was the construction of Memorial Arena, which cost much more than should have and is still considered by many as a monument to civic inefficiency.

No reasonable person will argue that other things are not necessary but in view of the little that Victoria has put out for the recreation of its citizens over the years, $600,000 is not quite as impressive as it looks. It's just overdue. It's also overmuch if the park it is to build is to have no lighting. Without lighting, the usefulness of Athletic Park is cut about in half.

City sports officials have waited a long time for this, and they don't deserve being called a "self-centred, ungrateful minority" because they expressed disappointment at not having a park, now which can be used at night.

And while they have been waiting, literally hundreds of them have been giving unsatisfactory of their time and, in many cases, money, to do what they can to provide the recreational facilities the city has failed to provide.

Drive past almost any park at this time of the year and you will see officials of various leagues and other interested sportsmen taking infields, putting down pitching mounds or even constructing buildings to make it possible to play their games.

Nor does that end there, either. In the past few years the Victoria Baseball Association has contributed more than $5,000 in cash, about half of it to support the development of Topas Park, towards the improvement of playing fields in this area. There have been other monies spent in aid of other sports programs and this year the association has plans to spend a considerable amount to furnish a meeting room in the new Athletic Park and to construct portable bleacher seating.

"It is this critical, self-centred minority, oblivious to the needs of others, wanted to do something positive rather than giving vent to negative, petty criticism it might well contemplate ways and means of helping to raise funds to round out our beautiful new park rather than knocking the major strides we are making," was the way Ald. Griffin passed off the contributions made by thousands of hours of them.

If we can't have lights now we can't have lights now but at least let's admit the justice of the protest. If the city had met its recreational responsibilities to its citizens half as well through the years as its citizens have met theirs there would be no need for nit-picking. On either side.

Two Leafs on All-Star Team But a Third Was Overlooked

Getting two players on the first all-star team and a third on the second team would ordinarily be considered a pretty fair showing for any club but Manager Buck Houlie of the Victoria Maple Leafs expressed the sentiment of many yesterday when the Western Hockey League all-stars were announced.

Houlie took it for granted that defenceman Fred Hucul and leftwing Bob Barlow would make it.

"But where," he demanded rather than asked, "is Andy Heberton?"

Heberton, tagged by King Clancy as the best player he has seen in the WHL this season, received 166 points compared to the 283 awarded Schmutz and the 288 for Connely.

Points are awarded on a 5-3-1 basis in the player poll. Hucul's selection was no surprise but the high-scoring Victoria veteran topped the poll with 319 points. That would not have been any surprise either but for the fact that the players had earlier selected Connie Madigan ahead of Hucul in the all-star voting. Madigan finished a close second.

Barlow, who might have led the league in goal-scoring but for a bad slump, nosed out Seattle veteran Bill MacFarland, 311-290, in the voting for the left-wing position.

Rounding out the first team were Vancouver centre Billy McNeill, who led all players with 356 points, and Vancouver goalkeeper Gilles Villeneuve.

McNeill, previously named the most valuable player, and Schmutz, who won the league scoring championship, as well as Madigan had previously won individual honors this season.

McNeill was also the only repeater from last season and it was the first ever appearance for Schmutz, Barlow, Villeneuve and Madigan, although the last three had previously won second-team selection.

It was, however, the sixth time Hucul had been selected to the all-star team. He made it previously in 1954, 1953, 1959, 1958 and 1956 and was a second team choice in 1952 and 1951.

Brother Sandy, who received more points than any other Victoria player except the two defencemen, and his five assists puts him within three of the record of 16 points, set by Vancouver's Larry Cahen in the semi-finals.

Previous high for defencemen was five goals, a record shared by Larry McNabb and Mo Mantha. Cahen also holds the new record for assists with 10.

The playoff record, set by Pat Lundy in 1954 and equalled by Phil Maloney in 1958, is 25 points. The record for goals, set by Sid Finney, is 15 and the record for assists, shared by Guyle Fielder and Maloney, is 17.

Playoff scoring for the two finalists:

Frisco Fans Go Wild As Mays Hits No. 512

It's 512 down and 203 to go for Willie Mays.

Mays broke the National League home run record last night to the thunderous acclaim of fans in San Francisco's Candlestick Park when he hit Claude Osteen's first pitch out of sight in the fifth inning to help the Giants to a 6-1 win over Los Angeles Dodgers.

He should pass Ted Williams' 521 without difficulty this season and has a good chance of the 26 more he needs to pass Jimmy Fox's 534. And then it's the 714 hit by Babe Ruth, perhaps not as remote a possibility as it seems for the 35-year-old Mays.

It was the first home run Osteen gave up in his last 95 innings, and it came 10 days after Mays had tied Ott's record in Houston.

Southpaw Joe Gibbon, obtained in an off-season trade with Pittsburgh Pirates, held the Dodgers to four hits but it didn't catch the Pirates, who stayed stubbornly in the lead with another one-run victory.

The Pirates got three earned runs in the fourth inning to defeat Cincinnati Reds for the sixth time this season, 4-3. Third baseman Pete Rose made two errors after two were out to open the gate.

Mays' home run took the spotlight off Jack Hamilton, who pitched a one-hitter as New York Mets ran over St. Louis Cardinals, 8-0.

Scratch hit by Cardinal-pitcher Ray Sadecki in the third inning stopped Hamilton from getting a no-hitter.

Over in the American League, New York Yankees beat the Baltimore Orioles, 5-1.

Minnesota Twins defeated the Chicago White Sox, 3-2.

Now 13-1 after opening the season with 10 straight wins, the Indians gained a full game on Baltimore Orioles, beaten a second straight time by Washington Senators, 3-2.

Meanwhile, the third-place Chicago White Sox and the fourth-place Detroit Tigers dropped back again and California Angels and the defending champion Minnesota Twins made up ground.

The Twins defeated the White Sox, 6-1, behind the steady pitching of Jim Kaat, the Angels creamed Kansas City Athletics, 13-2, with Bob Rodgers driving in five runs with four hits and the Tigers lost, 0-7, to Boston Red Sox, who got three-hit pitching from Earl Wilson and two homers, good for five runs, from rookie George Scott.

Cleveland Indians continued to make the big news. They won a game to stay ahead and lost a shortstop for an indefinite period.

Larry Brown was carried from the field on a stretcher, bleeding from his mouth and an eye in the fourth inning after colliding with teammate Leon Wagner chasing a pop fly.

The Indians went on to defeat New York Yankees, 2-1, when Fred Whitfield beat them for the third time this season with the ninth-inning home run.

He connected in the ninth with the score 1-1, to continue his great hitting against the one-time league power. Whitfield clubbed Yankee pitching for 10 home runs last season.

Now 13-1 after opening the season with 10 straight wins, the Indians gained a full game on Baltimore Orioles, beaten a second straight time by Washington Senators, 3-2.

In Serious Condition

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland shortstop Larry Brown, was listed in serious condition in hospital Wednesday night after examinations revealed he had suffered a fractured skull in a collision with teammate Leon Wagner during the Indians-New York Yankees game earlier in the night.

Oil Kings Shine In Cup Opener

TORONTO (CP)—Edmonton Oil Kings crushed Oshawa Generals 7-2 Wednesday night in a surprise display of strength in the opening of the best-of-seven Memorial Cup finals for the Canadian junior hockey championship.

Oil Kings, also-rans in five of the last six East-West battles for the cup, were not expected to manhandle the powerful Generals as easily.

Edmonton, led by centre Ross Perkins, 18, who scored two third-period goals, not only outshot the harassed Generals 52-20, but out-hit, out-buffed and out-manoeuvred them in every department.

Except for Bobby Orr, Oshawa's dazzling defenceman, who easily fired half of the shots directed at Edmonton goalie Don McCleod, Generals were not in it. Orr got one of the Oshawa goals on a rink-length rush to open the scoring in the first period. Wayne Cashman was the other Oshawa scorer.

Edmonton's other goals came from Ron Lonsberry, Jim Harton, Glen Head, Al Hamilton and Fred Bailey. The second game is here Friday.

Northwest Tourney Could Attract 370

The Pacific Northwest Golf Association men's and women's championships in Victoria July 4-9 could draw as many as 370 entries.

Ernie Peden of Uplands, who will assist tournament chairman Craig Harmon of Seattle, said that past tournaments have attracted up to 210 men and 160 women.

The men's competition will be at Royal Colwood with the women playing at Uplands. The tournament was last in Victoria six years ago.

Preparations for the event are going forward, but no definite schedule will be outlined until after the release of entry forms in about two weeks.

The PGNA junior boys' tournament will be held in Eugene, Ore., Aug. 22-26, and the girls' competition in Seattle July 12-22.

No. 8 Iron Got Him In Trouble

RYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—A golfer convicted of hitting a fellow player over the head with a No. 8 iron was ordered by a judge today to keep his temper for two years.

The judge told Allan John Goddard, 19: "I don't give second chances. In the last 24 hours you have realized... there is a great need to keep your temper."

Goddard was found guilty Tuesday of maliciously injuring John Richard Gordon during a game at Sydney's East Hills golf course.

Gordon told the court he suffered a head wound which needed 16 stitches after kicking Goddard's ball off the course's seventh green.

Even Toe Blake Admits Habs in Excellent Position

Montreal Canadiens can wrap up their 12th Stanley Cup since 1924 in Detroit tonight, and even that worried gum-chewer Toe Blake seems to be permitting himself a little confident speculation.

"We've got a good skating team and it's going to be pretty hard for them to come back," he said.

Tonight's game will be televised on Channels 2 and 6 beginning at 8 p.m., according to the CBC. Radio broadcast begins at 6 on CBU (490).

Blake said after Canadiens' 5-1 victory over the Red Wings Tuesday which sent them ahead in the series, 3-2.

If Montreal wins tonight, it will be Blake's seventh Stanley Cup championship since he took over Canadiens before the start of the 1933-34 season.

COULD BE END

And after their runaway victory Tuesday, Canadiens could end it in Detroit tonight.

Age and the gruelling six-game series with Chicago may be catching up with the Red Wings. "We never chased them all night," coach Sid Abel said after Tuesday's game. "In fact, we wouldn't have beaten a girl's team."

Of Detroit's key men, Gordie Howe and Bill Gadsby are 38, Alex Delvecchio is 34, Les Boivin, Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice, 33.

HABS' OLDEST

Victoria's Les Vegas meets Vancouver's Steve Tohill in another bout.

Scots Top Artillery

Canadian Scottish seniors' team wound up the indoor shooting season Tuesday by winning the 60-year-old Phoenix Cup at the Work Point Barracks' 25-yard range.

The six-man Scottish team finished with a total of 580, five better than the team from the 5th Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery.

Pacific Command Rifle Association was third at 571. Queens Own Rifles' Cadets had 570, 676 Squadron RCAF Cadets 514, and Canadian Scottish Cadets 485.

Blind bowlers from Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, White Rock, and the Okanagan will participate in the second annual Totem Tournament for the blind Saturday at Gibson's lanes.

The event was first held in Vancouver last year, and includes men's and women's pool-guide-rall singles for the totally blind, and men's and women's pool-guide-rall singles for partially sighted people.

The tournament, which begins at 2 p.m., will be preceded by a luncheon at the Canadian National Institute for the Blind Service Centre on Blanshard street at 12:30.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett will present the major award at the conclusion of the tournament.

HONOLULU (AP)—Don Larsen, who pitched a perfect game for the New York Yankees in the 1956 World Series, has joined the Pacific Coast Baseball league. He came to terms with Phoenix, a farm club of the national league San Francisco Giants, and left immediately for Arizona.

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's American League has rejected the request of the major league players' association for $150,000 to pay for the expenses of its newly-elected executive director and his office. It was learned that the National League also has turned down the request for the money, to come from the players' pension fund, the players' association said.

The players had indicated earlier that if the major leagues decided not to appropriate the requested sum they would pay for themselves. Miller, 48, an assistant to the president of the United Steelworkers of America, was elected to the $50,000-a-year post by the players. The players had asked that the salary and surcharge come from the share of the television receipts of the All-Star Game which goes into the players' pension fund.

Red Lion Inn of the senior "B" lacrosse league will hold a practice Sunday at 6 p.m. at the Hampton Park box. Team members and interested players are invited to attend.

LONDON (Reuters) — England defeated Yugoslavia 2-0 in a soccer international match at Wembley Stadium Wednesday night.

Inside-right Jimmy Greaves and centre-forward Bobby Charlton scored for England.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Football League's Committee on one league steering committee will meet in Toronto May 4-5, CFL President Ted Workman has announced. Workman's announcement said that it will be the first in a series of sessions needed before any conclusions can be drawn regarding the proposed disbanding of the Eastern and western CFL football conferences and amalgamation in to one league. # Crown Will Foot Truscott's Appeal Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — The Crown will pay all costs involved in bringing the Steven Truscott appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada, his father said Tuesday.

Dan Truscott, a warrant officer with the RCAF here, told a press conference his family is particularly grateful to Solicitor-General Pennell and the justice department in meeting the "substantial costs of presenting the case."

Steven 21, is serving a life sentence in an Ontario prison following his conviction in 1959 of the sex strangling of a 12-year-old girl near Clinton, Ont. He was 14 at the time.

A book casting doubts on his guilt led to a country-wide debate and promoted the cabinet to order the Supreme Court of Canada to hear an appeal.

Mr. Truscott said the court "is prepared to hold its hearings as soon as all the necessary preliminaries are completed and counsel are ready to proceed."

These preliminaries included the printing of the trial proceedings—some 2,500 pages—and the taking of new evidence by the court.

A court spokesman said Tuesday the case could be heard in June if the lawyers are ready to proceed. The Truscott appeal will be given priority.

Threat Surveyed

OTTAWA (CP) — A small army of federal recruits is about to begin a survey to determine which buildings in Canada provide the best protection against radiation fallout.

Two premises underlie the survey: Canada, although unlikely to be a target area in any nuclear war, would be hit by massive fallout from the United States, particularly Canada's major population centres which are close to the border; and the home fallout shelter program of several years ago never caught on.

The work is being done on behalf of the Canadian Emergency Measures Organization and when all the facts are in, and assessed by computer, the results will be fed back to the provinces and then to municipalities across the land.

Staff recruitment, under the civil service commission, has been under way for three years.

A great day to discover how little long distance costs

On this special day the voices of loved ones, perhaps from hundreds of miles away, have a special place in our hearts. Memories are sharpened, experiences recaptured. It is a day when togetherness means so much and—as always with B.C. TEL—costs so little.

Now a student son or daughter away at college can afford a long distance call home (especially if they call "collect"). Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditures which, over the years, have lagged far behind the general rise in other living costs. In fact, many long distance calls actually cost less in dollars and cents today than 10 years ago. Moreover, after 6 pm and all day Sunday they are cheaper by about one-fifth.

Check the rates yourself in your telephone book or dial "0" and ask the operator. You'll be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there." Here, for example, are a few current charges:

VANCOUVER—PRINCE GEORGE ..... $1.35
NEW WESTMINSTER—CALGARY ..... $1.50
VICTORIA—TORONTO ..... $1.85
(Evening, station-to-station calls, first 3 minutes)

On this important day of the year there's more reason than ever to use Long Distance for all it's worth!

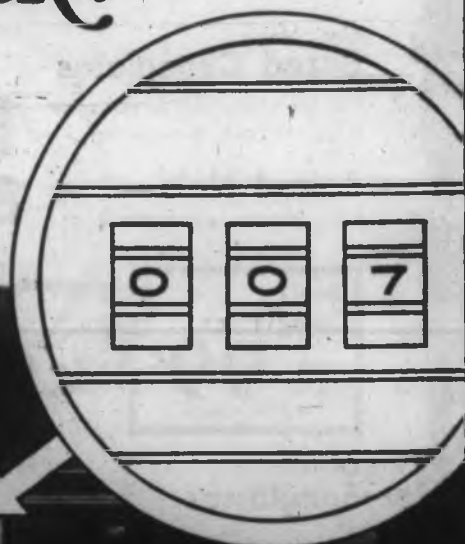

In Victoria Call 386-2211

If calling long distance, ask the operator for ZENITH 7000 (there is no charge).

Legality Main Question

By BILL STAYDAI

A doctor prescribing a birth control method for a promiscuous teen-age girl runs the risk of being charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Medicine ought to develop sterilization surgery with valves installed so the operation could be reversed.

These thoughts were placed before B.C. general practitioners here Wednesday as they discussed birth control methods at the wrap-up of a three-day conference.

NEED CONSENT

Most members of a medical panel hedged when asked the question: Would you prescribe a form of conception control for a 17-year-old girl whose behavior was sure to lead to pregnancy?

Dr. J. J. Zack of Vancouver, a private practitioner and an instructor in the department of preventive medicine at the University of British Columbia, said he wouldn't prescribe the birth control pill without the written consent of the parent.

He said he tried not to make moral judgments in such cases.

LEGAL SIDE

Dr. Zack added that he had no hesitation in prescribing the pill for an adult career woman. "One feels justified in giving these people protection," he said.

But Dr. John Lederman, a one-time lawyer now a general practitioner in Vancouver, warned of entanglement with the law in conception control for under-age girls.

CONTRIBUTING?

"It is possible that, acting in a medical capacity, we may be contributing to juvenile delinquency," he said.

"This is one of those hazardous areas of the law that the advances of medicine has produced."

Not even the consent of a parent would exonerate a doctor, he felt, adding that there had never been a test case.

STIGMA GOING

Dr. Robert Rutherford, associate clinical professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Washington school of medicine, reported that the stigma attached to unwed motherhood was disappearing. He made the statement on the basis of a survey of unwed mothers in a Washington institution.

"This concept of shame is pretty well gone," said Dr. Rutherford.

Dr. David Claman, clinical assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the UBC school of medicine, said in an earlier talk on birth control systems: "It seems to me we should concentrate on devising reversible surgical methods."

RESTORATION

He suggested "valve systems" which could be manipulated externally to restore to a sterilized man his power to inseminate.

"It is my opinion that no one method of birth control is ideal, and that all methods have their place," he said at one point.

Dr. Claman forecast "many more methods" of birth control would be developed in the next 10 years.

CHOICE

He urged doctors to inform their patients of all the existing methods of birth control before prescribing, so couples might choose the system best suited to themselves.

Dr. Philip Alderman, a North Vancouver physician who has performed more than 1,000 vasectomies (male sterilizations), reported that opinion is still divided on the legality of the operation.

The author of a medico-legal text declares vasectomy for conception control illegal, he said.

UNSANCTIONED

The Canadian Medical Protection Association, an insurance agency that guards doctors against law suits, refuses to sanction vasectomy.

But the lawyer for the B.C. College of Physicians and Surgeons says he doubts whether voluntary sterilization has ever been regarded as a crime, said Dr. Alderman.

His own lawyers told him there is no legal barrier to vasectomy.

HIGH SUCCESS

Dr. Alderman said an estimated 100,000 U.S. males undergo the simple operation each year. In Canada the figure is about 2,000 or 3,000.

Among his 1,000-plus operations there have been only five failures, or a success rate of 99.5 per cent, he said.

Thief Takes Meat, Razor

Two weekend break-ins were reported to police Monday.

About $70 in meat and a $24 electric razor were stolen from the suite of Oliver Thibault, 82 San Jose.

Two boxcans were broken into over the weekend, but it was not known what was stolen.

Police said the seals on the cars were broken and the unlocked doors opened. One car was delivering to Slade and Stewart, 95 Esquimalt, and the other to Victoria Community Grocers, 97 Esquimalt.

Counselling Helps Frigid Women

Professional counselling can eliminate sexual frigidity in women 90 per cent of the time, a Washington doctor said here Wednesday before a group of western general practitioners.

The statement came from Dr. Robert Rutherford, associate clinical professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Washington's school of medicine.

Dr. Rutherford, who also operates a fertility clinic in Seattle, spoke before the section of general practice of the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association. Approximately 150 doctors ended a three-day conference in the Empress Hotel Wednesday.

"Many women think that after the menopause they become neuters," he said, adding that the idea is entirely wrong.

He referred to "pseudo-frigidity" caused by misinformation.

Girls Over-Protected

If girls were raised like boys there would be more outstanding women, a Vancouver professor of medicine suggested here Wednesday.

The role of passive, docile housekeeper that is forced on girls is responsible for women's general lack of accomplishment, said Dr. David Claman, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the UBC school of medicine.

He spoke during the final session of a three-day conference of B.C. general practitioners at the Empress Hotel.

"There is no field that has more achievement by women than by men," said Dr. Claman. This is especially true in science, where womanly intuition has led to few of the major discoveries, he said.

Investigators looking into early character formation have found that over-protected and protected children develop poorer analytical thinking, he reported.

The "competitive, self-assertive, independent, dominant" child will develop himself more. And the average upbringing of boys fosters these qualities, said Dr. Claman.

One study of women mathematicians showed they modelled themselves on their fathers, he noted.

Parents and society in general have a fixed idea of what a girl should be, he said.

"From infancy they give her no choice to be anything but what they think a girl should be," he said.

"They smother her in pink when she might prefer blue; they give her dolls when she might prefer trains ... they send her to a psychiatrist if she likes books better than boys at 16."

"They initiate the mating process when she is 12, in the firm conviction that the only possible future for her is early marriage and lots of children."

This may be all right for many girls, said Dr. Claman, but "but such an attitude toward girls in their early formative years handicaps their intellectual development and their creative potential."

He said the world should encourage a girl with "a temperament that is full of curiosity, who likes to explore things, is dominant, independent, likes to play with boys, wear blue jeans and is not interested in dolls."

But, he observed glumly: "In the TV soap opera the apron is the mark of a good woman, the career the sign of a frustrated one, and being single the proof women's status rests with men, of a desperate one."

Much of the blame for women's status rests with men, he said.

Dr. Claman offered some hope for females of the future. "Men, I believe, are slowly coming to the realization that intellect does not necessarily damage the essential function of a woman, and that she does not really need to be passive and dependent in order to be sexually attractive or to be a good mother."

Court Disallows Indian Hunting

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba Court of Appeal has ruled Indians in the province lost their right to hunt migratory birds out of season with introduction of the Migratory Birds Convention Act.

Except Brain

Human Parts Coming

HOUSTON (UPI) — A London heart surgeon said Wednesday that within the not-too-distant future doctors will be replacing all parts of the human body except the brain either with mechanical substitutes or with duplicate parts from other humans.

"It may not be in my lifetime or yours, but the time is not too far away," said Dr. Donald Ross.

Ross said great steps have already been taken in replacing faulty human organs.

DOESN'T AGE

Only the brain will probably never be replaced, he said, because its operations are so complex and there is apparently no aging process that takes place in the brain.

Ross gave as examples of mechanical replacement such operations as the use of mechanical valves in the human heart.

In a dissenting opinion, Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman said the British North America Act explicitly states that the Manitoba Natural Resources Act should have the force of law notwithstanding any other act of parliament.

In a recent 3-1 judgment, the court upheld the conviction of six Indian reserve residents charged with violating the Migratory Birds Convention Act, an international treaty binding on both the United States and Canada.

ANY SEASON

The Natural Resources Act permits Indians to hunt birds for food at any time.

Mr. Justice Freedman said any remedy to the conflict in legislation should come from Parliament.

In stating the court's majority opinion, Mr. Justice A. M. Munn accepted Mr. Justice Freedman's outline of the conflict in legislation, but said the rights of Manitoba Indians to hunt during all seasons had been wiped out by the Migratory Birds Convention Act.

Mr. Justice Munn said preservation of some Indian rights was only a side issue of the Natural Resources Act. The main purpose was to transfer natural resources from the federal to the provincial government.

Moreover, he said, when the Natural Resources Act was passed, hunting for food could have been the difference between life and death for the Indian and his family. This no longer is true. Scores of social security measures now are available to all Canadian citizens and others to Indians only.

The Indians were fined $10 each for possession of migratory birds out of season.

'Emotionalism' Elected Lurleen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alabama Republicans have taken the view that temporary emotional factors propelled Lurleen Wallace to her sweeping victory in the state's Democratic party primary poll Tuesday and that their party's chances of winning the governorship in November's general election are bright.

The Alabama primary poll was one of six such primaries in the U.S.—first-round eliminations, removing within the parties hopefuls for Democratic or Republican nominations for the Nov. 8 general election when 435 members of the U.S. House of Representatives, 30 Senators and 35 state governors will be elected.

Mrs. Wallace, who made it clear her husband, Governor George C. Wallace—who cannot succeed himself as governor—will continue to run things if she is elected in November, outdistanced nine male opponents and captured a majority vote for the Democratic nomination for governor in Tuesday's primary.

Runner-up was state Attorney General Richmond Flowers.

It was the first major voting in the southern U.S. since enactment of the 1965 voting rights law and Negroes made their strength felt in many local offices. A Negro was nominated for the Alabama legislature and three Negroes ran ahead in races for sheriff.

The Republicans will nominate their candidate against Mrs. Wallace in a convention to be held at Montgomery July 29. Unless plans go awry, the nomination will go to James D. Martin of Gadsden, now a representative in Congress.

Oakville Wedding

Of interest in Victoria was the news of the recent marriage of Miss Judi Waterer and Mr. Clayton G. Lloyd Jones, in Oakville, Ont. Rev. Myles Estabrook of Oakville United Church officiated at the quiet wedding for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon J. Waterer, Nelson, B.C., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Lloyd Jones, Victoria.

For the occasion the bride chose a powder blue suit and model hat of petals and veiling. She wore accessories en tone and a corsage of Sweetheart roses. Mr. Gordon Linton gave his sister-in-law in marriage.

Mrs. Linton, as her sister's only attendant, was in a gold dressmaker suit. She wore beige accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

Mr. Glendon Lloyd Jones was best man for his brother.

Following a honeymoon at Niagara Falls the newlyweds will make their home in Oakville.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bath, 1415 Grant Street, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday. To mark the occasion they will be honored at a family dinner at the Oak Bay Marina Restaurant, following which they will be "at home" to their friends at 7 p.m. Married at Holy Trinity Church, Winnipeg, the couple has lived here for the past 46 years. They have two sons, Jack in Victoria, Jim in Montreal, a daughter, Mrs. Roy (Marjorie) Cowley, Toronto, and seven grandchildren.—(Jus-Rite)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Every now and again you print a phony letter and let the writer know you didn't fall for it. But someone did put one over on you the other day, Ann, so wipe the egg off your face and admit it. I'm referring to the 24-year-old woman who asked if she should ride a horse from Kentucky to California.

She presented herself as an expert horsewoman and said she had dreamed of making the trip since childhood.

Don't you know that in this day and age it would be utterly impossible to ride a horse from Kentucky to California? The highways are choked with cars. The young woman and her horse would surely be hit the first week of the trip. She said she wanted to leave in May. The desert heat that time of year is unbearable. And what about the crazy characters a woman would have to fight off on such a trip.

The person who made up that letter had a wild imagination but a telephone call to your local saddle club could have saved you from being dumped.

Next time you get a far-outter, check it. Baby.—NO RIDGE

Dear No Ridge: Thank you for your letter. Please read the next one.

Newspapers, TV and radio interviewed us in dozens of cities and we received many invitations for meals and housing. Among our hosts were an Air Force captain, a junior high school principal, Bob Hope's aunt, an Amish family, and the owner of the Indianapolis Speedway. We averaged 25 to 30 miles a day and spent many nights with warm-hearted folks who offered us a barn for the horses and soft beds for ourselves.

I hope the gal from Kentucky makes the trip but for heaven's sake Ann, not alone. She'll have some fabulous stories to tell her grandchildren. —MARY JO-NOV OF ROYAL OAK MICH.

Dear Ann Landers: If that young woman hopes to ride from Kentucky to California wants some first-hand advice we would be glad to help her. When I say "we" I mean myself, Mary Jo Alkire O'Brien, Mrs. Thora Gauthier and Miss Naomi Scully.

On July 23, 1962, we mounted our horses in Erie, Pennsylvania and for six and a half months we rode. On February 15, 1963, we arrived in Pasadena, California.

Thora, Naomi and I met through the Erie County Sheriff's Rangefire, a mounted drill team in Erie. We liked each other and together we planned a trip that proved to be a positively fascinating experience.

We carried our clothing, cooking utensils and water in saddle bags, tied the bedrolls on to the backs of the saddles, and camped out.

Lord Mayor Gets a Totem

LONDON — The Lord Mayor of London has a new souvenir for his official residence, the Mansion House: A British Columbia totem pole.

The pole was presented to Sir Lionel Denny by deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace on behalf of the British Columbia centennial committee.

Accepted on behalf of his successor was an invitation to attend the 100th anniversary of the joining of the colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia.

The B.C. group was received at Canada House by Canadian High Commissioner Lionel Chevrier and Mme. Chevrier.

LONDON — With her broken nose reset, Princess Anne smiled as she left King Edward's Hospital after a stay of a few days. The nose was broken when she took a header from her horse while riding to the hounds.

OTTAWA — Jean Sutherland Boggs, former curator of the Toronto Art Gallery, has been named the first woman director of the National Gallery of Canada. Dr. Boggs, 43, will take up the post June 1. State Secretary Judy LaMarsh said in the Commons. She succeeds Dr. Charles Comfort, who retired last year. Dr. Alan Dale has been acting director.

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea — Hundreds of bare-breasted women and girls welcomed Prince Charles when he landed at the remote village of Raba Raba in southern Papua. Earlier, the prince took the controls of a small twin-engine aircraft for a few minutes over some of the most dangerous flying country in the world.

KARACHI — President Mohammed Ayub Khan launched Pakistan's biggest home-built cargo vessel, the 12,860-ton Al Abbas, in Karachi harbor.

LONDON — Roving American ambassador Averell Harriman conferred with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson for 30 minutes at the House of Commons. There was no announcement of what they discussed. Harriman delayed his departure for a Geneva conference on American prisoners in Viet Nam.

HOLLYWOOD — Film and television actress Joan Crawford, 43, has filed suit to divorce her

Moors Case Near Jury

CHESTER, England (Reuters)—A 12-man jury was asked Wednesday night to convict a 28-year-old clerk and his blonde mistress for three macabre sex murders they are charged with committing "for kicks."

Attorney-General Sir Elwyn Jones, summing up for the prosecution in the 12th day of the couple's trial, called Ian Brady "a killer without a conscience" and Myra Hindley, 23-year-old typist, his "cool, calculated co-operator in murder."

He said there is overwhelming evidence they murdered Edward Evans, 17; John Kilbride, 12; and Lesley Ann Downey, 10.

LIFE TERMS
The bodies of Kilbride and Lesley Ann were found buried on a lonely moor near their home in Manchester last fall.

The accused pleaded not guilty. They face possible imprisonment for life since Britain has abolished the death penalty.

They were arrested after David Smith, Miss Hindley's 18-year-old brother-in-law and the key prosecution witness, told police he had seen Brady kill Evans with 14 axe blows after picking him up at a homosexual's club.

BOASTED
The attorney-general said Brady had boasted to Smith earlier of committing three or four other murders and that he was enraged in "the business of murdering for kicks."

Jones asked the jury: "Did you see the slightest flicker of emotion when the most poignant and harrowing details were being discussed?"

He rejected the claim of both accused that Smith himself took part in Evans' killing after a plot to rob the victim had miscarried.

CAUTIONS JURY
Brady's defense counsel, Elyn Hooson, told the jury it is no "open-and-shut case." He said the jury could not conclude that because Brady admitted killing Evans in a fight, he murdered Kilbride and Lesley Ann. The case must be decided on evidence, not on emotional grounds, he said.

Accident Victims Show Improvement

Frank Nelson, 18, who suffered electric shock and fell 70 feet from a power pylon Thursday, was stated in fair condition Tuesday in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Five-year-old Gary Fenwick of 5165 Cordova Bay Road is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

He suffered fractures of the skull, jaw and leg April 13, when he ran in front of a cement truck near his home.

Electronics Work Wheelchair

This electronic wheelchair called Permo Car is more advanced than a radio in its electronic components. It has 30 transistors, and six electric motors to raise foot supports. A charge of electric motor will allow "walk" of about six miles. Chair comes to full stop when patient loses control. (Fednews).

Indonesia, Malaysia Near Peace

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Indonesia and Malaysia appeared ready Wednesday to end their three-year-long undeclared war in the jungles of Borneo and across the strait of Malacca.

Hopeful signs for a peaceful end to Indonesian president Sukarno's hostile policy of confrontation against Malaysia came from the capitals of the two countries and from Manila.

Philippine foreign secretary Narciso Ramos, returning to Manila from weekend talks in Bangkok with Indonesian foreign minister Adam Malik, predicted the dispute will be "settled by peaceful means and not by force." He added that a settlement could come "in two months, three months or five months — but it is in the books."

TALKS?
In the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lumpur, deputy prime minister Tun Abdul Razak said his country was prepared to talk peace with Indonesia if the current lull in the fighting along their borders continued. He said Malaysia would not set a series of conditions in the way of negotiations.

Reports from Jakarta quoted Malik as saying Indonesia was ready to call off the confrontation policy in the interest of the Indonesian economy and that he expected peace talks to be held soon.

The dispute flared when Sukarno refused to recognize the federation of Malaysia, formed in 1963 by Malaya, the Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah and Singapore. Singapore withdrew from the federation last August. Sukarno denounced Malaysia as a "British neo-colonialist plot" and vowed to "crush" the federation. Bands of armed Indonesian infiltrators were sent by boat and plane into Malaya along the Indonesian-Malaysian borders on the island of Borneo. There also were numerous clashes but were killed or captured by Malaysian security forces.

Crump Sees Labor Trouble

MONTREAL (CP) — Ian Sinclair, born in Winnipeg and educated in the law, was elected president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. Wednesday, after his election by CPR directors the top team of the giant company will not differ greatly in its policies from the team that included his immediate predecessor as president, the late R. A. Emerson.

Mr. Crump told CPR shareholders at their annual meeting poses the biggest economic danger to Canada.

COSTS RISING

Rising costs were a factor in making Canadian companies less competitive on the world market, he said, and a top factor in the CPR's costs were wage demands by labor.

"We are faced with larger demands from labor than we've ever had in our history," the chairman said.

STORM WARNING

He said he had suggested to the company's shareholders that, in view of these demands, "there might be some rough weather ahead."

The CPR's holdings include shipping and air lines, real estate, investment services and a variety of metallurgical interests.

ORIENT MARKET

Mr. Crump told the reporters there will be "a larger market in the orient for Canadian wheat in the foreseeable future."

Wheat sales to China and the Soviet Union, together with a general burgeoning of the economy, had buoyed up the CPR's freight business in 1965 and the first quarter of 1966, Mr. Crump and Mr. Sinclair said.

The crop prospects in western Canada look "pretty favorable" this year, said Mr. Sinclair.

Growing populations in Asian countries mean bigger markets for Canadian grain, said Mr. Crump, and other Canadian resources promise to sell well there too.

NATIONALIZATION HIT

He said some kind of integration of federal agencies regulating transportation in Canada "would be a good thing so long as it does not become unwieldy."

He said he "disagrees completely" with criticisms of the CPR made recently by the National Union of Farmers. The union called for nationalization of the CPR. Mr. Crump said the company will have more to say about these criticisms later.

EXCESS DEMAND

In his speech to the shareholders, the chairman said "inflation and the excesses associated with inflation" must be avoided as Canada drives for economic expansion.

Business expansion gave promise of continuing but there was a danger in "an excess of demand in relation to productive resources available."

Demand on the CPR for grain shipments meant the railway must better its previous peak performance in this respect, Mr. Crump said.

In the face of the rising freight requirements, the railway is buying more stock and equipment, although demand for passenger space continues to follow the downward trend in evidence since the Second World War.

Jubilee Longer

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul Wednesday extended the jubilee or little holy year commemorating the success of the Ecumenical Council to a full 12 months. The jubilee originally was scheduled to end on Pentecost, May 29.

A papal decree, dated Tuesday, ruled it would now run through Dec. 8, the first anniversary of the closing of the council.

The jubilee, a period during which Roman Catholics can earn special indulgences by going on pilgrimages to Rome or to the cathedrals of their own dioceses, began last Dec. 8.

The Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano said the Pope decided to extend it at the request of many bishops who said their dioceses were too large or their clergy too few for all Catholics to reap the spiritual benefits.

Funnymen Must Travel

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — With burlesque and vaudeville gone and night club swindling—everybody is rightly wondering where the next generation of American comedians will come from. But not Jonathan Winters—he says he knows.

Mopping up the last of his breakfast egg, the moon-faced actor and humorist said the successor to the tank town circuits that produced the best world class American performers was as obvious to him as a travel brochure.

"In fact," he said, "a traveling brochure is the answer. If I were a young artist breaking into show business now I would consider both sides of the Atlantic my training ground—the United States and Great Britain."

LANGUAGES

"Along with singing, dancing, pantomime or jokes I would also learn to speak at least one foreign language fluently. And that would broaden my potential audience by millions of people. Already Broadway and the west end of London are practically interchangeable as far as shows go.

Television is doing the same thing for the solo artist.

'SILVER WAY'

"With television shows selling all over the world, an artist needs international appeal and the surest way to achieve it is to work in other countries besides our own."

Winters was doing just that as the host for the first of six big color specials which the National Broadcasting Co. is recording here for television in the U.S. in July.

Winters

Title of the special is Jonathan Winters at the Palladium—the London Palladium being the best-known vaudeville theatre in the world.

OWN SCRIPT

Each of the six will have a different host and a cast of British and continental variety stars.

Winters, a versatile fellow who wrote his own script and lived up the breakfast table with a rendition of one of his skits—an American tourist being shown the sights of London by a very British Briton.

B.C. Pulp Companies To Fight Pollution

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two major new British Columbia pulp mill operations have earmarked almost $6,000,000 for control of pollution in air and water, long a sore spot between the timber industry, conservationists and government agencies.

The Tahsis Co. Ltd. will spend more than $3,500,000 to combat water and air pollution at the huge operation it is building at Gold River on Vancouver Island. And at Prince George, in the B.C. Interior, the Prince George Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd. has announced plans to spend $2,500,000 on pollution abatement.

The Gold River program represents about six per cent of a total investment of $55,000,000 and the firm estimates that only $500,000 of the pollution control figure "can be justified by economic returns."

Patrick N. Bowles-Evans, manager of Pulp Mill Design and Construction, said the Tahsis plans have been approved by the technical staff of the federal fisheries department and by the B.C. government.

U.S. Actors Capture Fear

By E. D. WARD-HARRIS

A dramatized version of the famed Alan Paton novel, Cry, The Beloved Country, was presented in Christ Church Cathedral Wednesday night to a distressingly small audience.

Cast of five were one of the touring units of The Bishop's Company of Burbank, Calif.

The play, which sticks faithfully to the book, deals in moving fashion with the tragedy of apartheid in South Africa.

A poor colored clergyman reluctantly leaves his rural parish to go in search of his sister and his son in Johannesburg. He finds his sister leading an abandoned existence in a slum area, and his son arraigned for murder.

SHOOTING

The boy, bent on burglary, is surprised by a white apartment owner and, in terror, shoots him dead. Ironically, the dead man was a sympathizer of the oppressed black men.

Justice—whiteman's justice—takes its course and the boy is hanged but the compassionate father of the murdered man is forgiving to the point of donating money to rebuild the colored priest's church.

The fears, tensions and miseries of black men compelled to live in a white man's world they cannot cope with, a world which needs their labor and nothing else. Is strongly underlined.

Copter Crash Kills 21 Aboard

SAIGON (UPI) — A huge American Chinook helicopter crashed and burned in thick jungle Wednesday, apparently killing all 21 persons aboard, a military spokesman said.

The crash site, about 110 miles north-northwest of Saigon and 202 miles northwest of Gia Nghia, was so overgrown that rescue helicopters could not land near the wreckage.

The aged Zulu priest was played by Tom Mills. His performance was masterly. On stage for all but a few minutes of the one-and-one-half-hour play, he succeeded in evoking the bewilderment, goodness and courage of the tragic Kumafo.

He, and he alone, converted a bare stage into the veldt, a metropolis and a mountain top. And he did it through sincerity of acting and beautiful diction.

Tom Mills is white, but there was never any doubt that he was the Rev. Stephen Kumalo.

The entire cast was white and as all but Mr. Mills took several roles, both-black and white, the action taxed the imagination somewhat.

But the message—that decency is above the color of a man's skin — came through clearly.

The small professional cast was good but it was unfortunate that the important part of the narrator was given to a woman. The cathedral acoustics are most unkind to the female voice, and we missed much.

I shall now re-read the book with added understanding.

Commons Telecasts Next?

OTTAWA (CP)—Eagerness of MPs to have their constituents see first-hand how well they do their work might be used to help solve the problem of getting a quorum for Commons committees, it was suggested in the Commons Wednesday.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said if the committees experimented with radio and television broadcasts of committee proceedings they would have no difficulty getting enough MPs to attend.

FULL COVERAGE

He hinted such an experiment might be a forerunner to radio and television broadcasts to proceedings of the Commons itself, noting that considerable public discussion now is going on in Britain about broadcasting Commons proceedings.

The suggestion was thrown by the Commons justice and legal affairs committee to reduce its quorum to 10 from 13.

The proposal was approved. So was a similar proposal for the public accounts committee.

KNOWLESS AGAINST

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) opposed the move. He said the Commons should not be reduced to 10 per cent of the committee membership from 30 per cent.

To reduce committee quorums, to enable committees to sit while the Commons is in session and not to guarantee that committee reports will be dealt with by the House would ruin the rules experiment adopted last year.

After approving quorum reductions, the Commons debated a further request by the public accounts committee for permission to meet while the Commons is in session. This also was approved.

Grant Deachman (L.—Vancouver Quadra), who acts as co-ordinator on the government side of the chamber for House committees, urged reduction in the size of committees as part of a program to revise the rules applying to committees.

QUIET MEMBERS

Alfred D. Hales (PC—Wellingford South), chairman of the public accounts committee, suggested MPs unable to attend a committee meeting be permitted to nominate an alternate.

Lawrence E. Kindt (PC—MacLeod) said the real problem is organization. Committees were meant to keep back-bench MPs quiet but the trouble was they were given no authority. He blamed the government for this.

CUT QUORUMS

Gerald W. Baldwin (PC—Peace River) said when the government introduced its own set of rule changes, it left out considering how the committees were to get through all the work which the new rules required to be referred to them. He supported the move to reduce quorums.

The Commons passed motions to allow the public accounts committee to reduce its quorum and meet while the House is sitting.

Maurice Allard (Ind.—PC—Sherbrooke) said committees should be manned by interested MPs. He had been trying for three months to get on the justice and broadcasting committees.

Finally he had been named to the northern affairs and library committees, in which he had no interest whatever.

Cheerful Queen Mother Given Surprise Posy

VANCOUVER (CP)—A cheerful Queen Mother made what she called a flying visit to Vancouver Wednesday, drawing cheers from the crowds.

The seven-hour stopover on a trip home from Down Under started with an unofficial presentation of a posy by an eight-year-old, included a short, slow procession through the city, and ended when she boarded a plane for Ottawa.

The Queen Mother, whose visit to New Zealand was marred by poor weather, was greeted by bright spring sunshine when she stepped off her plane.

CITY HALL.

The visit was a brief halt in a journey home after a six-week tour of Australia and New Zealand — "literally a flying visit," she said to an alderman.

She spent most of the morning in the Royal Suite of the Vancouver Hotel, made a slow trip to city hall where she signed the guest book and rushed back for a reception and an informal luncheon of baked ham and pineapple rings.

Thousands of children lined her route from the airport and other flag-waving youngsters cheered her at city hall.

THRILLED

The scene-stealer was Lorraine Bjornsson, school girl in suburban Richmond, who slipped out onto the airport tarmac to present the Queen Mother with a posy of tulips and bluebells.

The little girl told reporters she was thrilled with meeting royalty for the first time.

"I just felt like doing it," she said.

Her mother said Lorraine, who had watched the Queen Mother on television when she passed through here on the way to Australia, got up at 6 a.m. to pick the flowers.

There was a brief flap at the hotel when officials could not locate the Queen Mother's baggage. They had thought it was to come from the airport by truck but no truck arrived.

It was later explained the baggage had been put in the trunk of a car in the cavalcade from the airport.

She was greeted at the airport by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Mrs. Bennett and civic officials.

Crowds were five deep around the hotel.

About 350 persons were at Vancouver Airport to see her take off for Ottawa.

Premier Bennett invited her to return next year for the opening of the B.C. centennial museum. She said she would like to but did not commit herself.

VANCOUVER (CP) — After the CBRT said it would not join in an invitation to ask the justice to head the board.

"The CBRT is perfectly entitled to ask for another chairman and I shall respect their wishes by refusing to accept appointment to that board," he said.

Mr. Justice Munro has been appointed to head two other conciliation boards dealing with the dispute between non-operating employees and the railways.

He announced these proceedings will start in Montreal May 31. Mr. Justice Munro said he accepted an invitation to head these boards from the railways and 16 of the 17 unions involved.

The chairman of the third board has not yet been appointed.

the dispute between non-operating employees and the railways.

He announced these proceedings will start in Montreal May 31. Mr. Justice Munro said he accepted an invitation to head these boards from the railways and 16 of the 17 unions involved.

The chairman of the third board has not yet been appointed.

Lawyer Found Saboteur

PRETORIA, South Africa (UPI) — One of South Africa's leading lawyers, Abram Fischer, was found guilty Wednesday on 15 charges of Communist and sabotage activities. He could be sentenced to death on the gallows.

Fischer pleaded guilty before the supreme court to three charges of belonging to the outlawed Communist party and taking part in its activities.

But he pleaded innocent to all the other charges, including one that he conspired to commit sabotage.

FAIR

It was the charge under the sabotage act for which he could be sentenced to death by hanging.

Fischer, a Queen's counsel, gained fame for his defence of persons opposed to the South African government.

His trial became one of the most sensational political cases in South African history.

DEAGNET Police launched a nationwide dragnet for Fischer last year after he jumped $14,000 bail in Johannesburg and fled.

He eluded the dragnet for months but finally was recaptured. He had altered his facial features and wore disguises in an attempt to escape recognition.

During the lengthy trial, considered one of the most important ever held here, evidence was introduced to show that a key state witness — ex-security policeman Gerard Ludi — was so successful in infiltrating the Communist party's top echelons that he was sent to the Soviet Union on party business.

Under South African law, Fischer can appeal his conviction to another justice of the Supreme Court.

Building Increases

NANAIMO — Rural building permits covering planning division No. 6 totalled $514,913 during April.

Thirty-nine permits were issued during the month, the two biggest being $208,000 for Fairview School addition, and $32,000 for additions to the Nanaimo City Works Yard at Northfield.

Permits for the year now total $3,021,376, well past the first four months mark last year of $838,049.

Two Killed in Bus Crash

QUANTICO, Va. (UPI) — A Greyhound bus bound from Washington to New Orleans, State police reported, overturned near here Wednesday, killing at least two persons and injuring more than 30. Officials at the Quantico Marine Corps School said the driver of the bus as Lester S. Hall of Richmond. Hall told authorities he was southbound out of Washington when the cruiser was sideswiped by a car. According to Hall he lost control of the bus and the vehicle flipped over on its side. The car shot off an embankment. Hall told authorities he had 28 paid adult passengers "and quite a few children" aboard the bus at the time of the accident.

Horrors Recalled

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Konrad Adenauer Wednesday kindled a memorial candle for the Jewish victims of Nazism and listened to a prayer for the dead.

The former West German chancellor started his second day in Israel by attending a solemn ceremony in the Memorial House for Jews who died from Nazi persecution.

Later, at a luncheon given in his honor by Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, Adenauer said the morning ceremony had given him a fresh impulse to "devote my remaining capabilities to ensure that such atrocities shall never be perpetrated again."

Canada Pledges Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine nations, including Canada, signed a $22,000,000 agreement Wednesday to build a 30,000 kilowatt power plant on Mekong River tributary in Laos.

The United States, under the agreement, pledged $12,000,000 to the project. Japan pledged $4,000,000, The Netherlands $3,000,000, Canada $2,000,000 and 1964.

MINES PAY BILLS

Lived on Island in 30s

Spencer's Statement

VANCOUVER—Here are excerpts from spy suspect George Victor Spencer's statement to the Wells inquiry:

After finishing high school, two years, about 1922, I moved with my parents to Courtenay. I started working in garages as mechanic and general helper. In 1929 I went to the Prairies for harvest. In 1930 I went to work in the Powell River pulp mill for about a month and then returned to Courtenay.

About 1931-32 my father went to England on a trip and was ill so my father went back into the hotel business at the Waverley at Cumberland. I went to Cumberland to take care of my father's interest in this hotel. I lived in Cumberland until 1937, at which time I think my father sold the business.

SEPARATED
I was married in 1933 in Courtenay. We got a separation in 1936 and divorce in 1942. After 1937 I was mostly unemployed and did some work around Vancouver where my father got a rooming house. In 1938, I applied to engage in the RCAF but was not accepted.

In 1941 I applied to engage for service in the RCAF. I joined the army in 1942. I served overseas in England and earned the BEM. I was discharged in 1946. I worked installing escalators for about a year.

About 1935 or 1937 I became associated with the Communist party and I was an accepted member. I have never held any official position in the Communist party. In 1946, I was expelled from the party which was at that time known as the Labor Progressive Party. I was expelled because of arguments I had with them on policy matters.

GRAIN BOATS
In 1957 or 1958 I figure it was this time that the first Russian boats came to Vancouver after the war to pick up grain. I was associated with the Canadian-Soviet Friendship Society. I attended their house meetings and attended their functions and knew many of the people in this group.

At the time the boats arrived in Vancouver this society had a general invitation to visit the boats. I went down to the boats with other persons on several occasions. On one occasion a man who said he was representing the Russian embassy during the grain deal asked for a ride to the Vancouver Hotel.

Mr. Spencer then related a later visit with this person and his desire to travel to Russia.)

OTTAWA TRIP
About two years after this time I got a phone call to go to the corner of Main and Broadway to meet a person. I don't know who this person was but when I met him he told me he was a member of the Russian Embassy. He is not one of the photos shown to me.

He asked me if I would fly to Ottawa to meet someone from the Russian Embassy. I had been inquiring for sometime about visiting Russia and furthering culture exchanges and I agreed to go to Ottawa.

I went to Ottawa and met this man and another man who looks like the photo shown to me of "Burdakov." This meeting would have been on Saturday, Oct. 8, 1960. On this trip I used the name McNeil. I also used this name for TCA.

CULTURAL
The purpose of this meeting was to discuss exchanges of a cultural nature. On this occasion I met the man who I had met at Vancouver who introduced me to a man who looks like the photo of Burdakov. On this occasion the second man was interested in ethnic groups and about the various nationalities living in Canada.

I felt there was a good chance of getting a trip to Russia and that the Russian embassy had quite a bit of influence in persuading such groups as unions, etc. as to who should be able to visit Russia. It was therefore to my advantage to get a trip to keep on the good side of the embassy officials.

I used the name "McNeil" because my mother being alone at home and it always being possible for a plane to crash I didn't want them to phone my mother to report my death.

ETHNIC GROUPS
I had arranged with McNeil who at that time was living on Eton Street to handle any such messages should there be an accident. On this trip he asked me to get as much information on ethnic groups as I could; the various members; own schools, etc. and any general information about British Columbia. This conversation took place in my hotel room.

(Mr. Spencer then discusses arrangements for a future meeting.)

SIGNALS
We used these signals throughout our dealings. I would write the film editor of the Soviet embassy. The letters sent to me would be addressed in my own name and proper address. I think I addressed the Ottawa man as "George." I don't think I used a return address on my letters.

The main interest was why these people left their home country and what their political inclinations were. They were also interested in Russian prisoners of war who did not return to Russia after the war.

I think that the Russians wished to locate these ex-prisoners of war. I don't know why. I also took some pictures of Vancouver. These were mostly of the poorer housing areas of Vancouver in the East End, generally the life of Vancouver people. I took some myself and bought some. I don't know why they wanted these. I have surmised that they wanted to show how people lived under our system. This is my own philosophy. I think I travelled again as "McNeil."

On my third trip on July 15, 1961, I don't know what name I used, it may have been "McNeil" or "McCann." I'm not sure where I stayed.

On the fourth trip on December 16, 1961, I don't remember where I stayed or what name I used. My fifth trip was on June 2, 1962. I don't remember the name of the motel where I stayed or what name I used.

PIPELINE
In all these trips to Ottawa I deal with the same man who looks like the photo of Burdakov.

During my various discussions with this man he showed interest in many things and we discussed the Trans Mountain pipeline in which he showed particular interest. I told him that I was going on a holiday up that way and would take some pictures for him.

I took this holiday probably in June 1961 and travelled by car from Vancouver up the Fraser Canyon to Prince George to Dawson Creek about 50 or 60 miles up the Alaska Highway, back to Dawson Creek to Grande Prairie, Edmonton, Jasper, Cranbrook, Fernie, Crows' Nest Pass and returned by Cranbrook across the border to Spokane and back to Vancouver via the Hope-Princeton highway.

During my trip I took photos of the refinery at Taylor, B.C. and what I thought was a pumping station between Edmonton and Jasper.

TANK FARMS
In that area there are a large number of oil tanks and pumping stations. I took both movie and still-camera films of these places. I subsequently gave this same man pictures of my trip.

(This is followed by detail of his trip through Alberta.)

I gave the roll of movie film and some general still pictures, these included pictures of the Fraser Valley, of mountains, of oil tanks, towns—general view of coming into some towns.

I have been shown two negatives of a bridge and pipeline going across a river. I could have supplied my Ottawa contact with this. I have been shown six negatives of highway scenes. I cannot identify these scenes but I possibly could have supplied these.

In addition to the above, I supplied general films of Vancouver—I bought albums of these in Vancouver. I don't know how many albums I supplied but probably about six. Each album had about six or eight pictures.

I supplied city road maps of Vancouver and district. He was interested in any firms that had become bankrupt. I was able to supply some information that I got from a private firm in Vancouver.

He was interested in the procedure for crossing the U.S.-Canada border and the forms required for emigrating to the U.S.A.

I got some U.S. Immigration forms at the U.S. consulate and gave them to my Ottawa contact. He never made any inquiries about universities. He inquired about tourists visiting Vancouver, but I didn't supply any material.

He inquired about drivers' licences—for instance, if a B.C. licence was good in Alberta. I did supply some information regarding motels and hotels where rooms were available and may have given him a copy of the B.C. directory tourist accommodation book.

SPCA Considers Sale for Science

NORTH COWICHAN—At a council meeting Wednesday Coun. Dennis Hogan asked if the SPCA shelter had considered selling animals from the shelter for research purposes.

Coun. George Whittaker said "the SPCA is missing a bet" if it does not consider selling animals for this purpose.

Reeve Morton asked, "Do you mean experiments with live animals?" And Coun. Whittaker replied, "Yes."

SOURCE OF CASH
Coun. Whittaker said the legal sale of animals would prevent gangs stealing animals for research and the SPCA would get some of the money it needs.

Miss Mary Waldon, a local SPCA official, contacted after the meeting, said "We are working on selling animals for research now."

SITUATION STUDIED
"It is a very big subject and a committee is being formed to investigate the matter."

She added the provincial parent body of the SPCA is looking into the situation.

With the exception of Coun. Whittaker council voted against granting a lease of 10 acres of municipal land to a private person. The land in question is fronting the Chemainus River.

Council learned the taxpayer wants to build a summer cabin.

DISCOUNT MONEY
Coun. Mrs. Dobbyn said, "I oppose this lease to one man because it would tie up valuable municipal land and we would set a precedent." Referring to a remark that it would bring in some revenue she replied, "Money should not enter this at all."

Coun. Whittaker said the man could be given a smaller piece of land and at the same time the land would be watched during the fire season.

HURDLE CLEARED
The last hurdle toward a $500,000 sewer project which will serve the Gibbins Road, Mary Street and Sherman Road area has been overcome Reeve Morton said.

The Pollution Control Board has informed the municipality the project is approved but certain conditions have been referred to the municipal consulting engineer.

Robbery

Not Hostile

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Crown failed in an attempt to have a witness declared hostile by the court, as preliminary hearing continued Wednesday of five men charged with conspiracy and theft of $333,000 in gold bullion.

The five charged are lawyer Harry D. Backlin, 36, William Kenneth Leishman, 34, John M. Barry, 26, and brothers Paul Grenkow, 25, and Richard Grenkow, 23.

MINT SHIPMENT

All are accused of theft and conspiracy in the March 1 robbery of a gold shipment which had arrived in Winnipeg from Red Lake, Ont., destined for the Royal Canadian mint in Ottawa. Backlin is also charged with possessing property obtained by crime.

At the opening of the third day of hearings, Magistrate Harold Gyles said Mike Melnyk of Roseburn, Man., who had given testimony earlier of a meeting in a hotel room between himself, Barry and two other men, could not be considered an adverse witness.

NOT HOSTILE

Crown prosecutor Laurie Mitchell asked the magistrate Tuesday to declare Melnyk a hostile witness. Magistrate Gyles ruled, however, that he was satisfied, after reading a transcript of evidence, that although inconsistencies appeared in Melnyk's evidence, they were not of such character which would permit him to declare the witness hostile.

Leslie Mobbs, assistant manager of Bayview Motel at Vermilion Bay, Ont., told the hearing that Paul Grenkow had been a registered guest at the motel Feb. 10-15.

The motel is located on the Trans-Canada Highway 60 miles east of Kenora, Ont., and 112 miles south of Red Lake.

The hearing is continuing.

New Tires Called Inadequate

WASHINGTON (CP) — The tires on most new American cars are not "adequate for safe operations," government authority Heinz A. Abersfeller has told a congressional committee.

He says revised government standards due in 60 to 90 days will rule out the two-ply tire for government autos. The two-ply tire on most 1966 U.S. models has two layers of rayon or nylon cord in the tire carcass. Abersfeller is commissioner of the U.S. government's federal supply service and his office is responsible for setting the safety standards the government demands when it buys cars and tires.

After testifying to the Interstate and foreign commerce committee of the House of Representatives Tuesday, Abersfeller told reporters the two-ply tire is less safe than it ought to be and is only "adequate" if new or not badly worn.

Newsmen Reopen Discussions

NEW YORK (UPI) — The striking Newspaper Guild of New York returned Wednesday to negotiations with the World Journal Tribune Publishing Co. after rejecting Mayor John V. Lindsay's proposal of a fact-finding panel.

The strike against the consolidated newspaper firm was in its 11th day. It has prevented publication of the firm's two newspapers, The Herald Tribune and The World Journal, since their scheduled inception April 25.

Two Inmates Captured

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two inmates who walked away from Agassiz Correctional Institute early Saturday were captured Tuesday as they attempted to cross the border at Huntington, Wash.

The men are Glen Donovan, who was serving a 2 1/2 year sentence after being arrested in Vancouver, and Kenneth Saul Basil, who was serving five years after being arrested in Quebec.

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) — The ketch Atlantis, the principal research vessel of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution for the last 35 years, is being sold to Argentina. It was announced Tuesday. The steel-hulled vessel was built in Denmark in 1931.

Lawyer Hits 'Sheep, Hacks'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver lawyer has charged juried are apathetic sheep and some judges are political hacks.

C. R. MacLean said the jury system is dying out because people no longer believe it is a noble and solemn duty to serve.

Mr. MacLean, a member of the Vancouver Bar Association's justice committee, made the comments in a speech Tuesday on The Pre-emption of Gull at a Young Men's Christian Association program meeting.

In a question-and-answer period later, he severely criticized Victoria Police Chief Jack Gregory and Vancouver Police Chief Ralph Booth, who have called for wider powers for police.

"Juries nowadays are apathetic sheep," Mr. MacLean said.

"They look at the judge like he had come down from Mount Sinai with 12 tablets in his hands."

He said judges in many cases are nothing more than political hacks who make errors which can give a jury wrong direction.

Mr. MacLean said he was shocked by the attitudes of Chief Gregory and Chief Booth in declaring police should have wider powers and the magistrate and judge almost automatically presume he is telling the truth and the accused is lying, the lawyer said.

"These policemen are being led by men like Booth and Gregory who should be in the front line fighting for civil liberties instead of fighting against these things."

Mr. MacLean urged the public to fight summaries for minor offences.

"You will be doing a public service if you go to court and make them prove the charge, even if it's only a traffic ticket."

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Attorney-General Bonner Wednesday hailed the Board of Transport Commissioners' ruling about B.C. Telephone Company profits as a "landmark judgment" in favor of telephone subscribers in this province.

"It is not something the people will throw their hats in the air about because it's a very technical sort of field, although the judgment is of definite advantage to phone subscribers," he said.

The attorney-general said because a maximum has now been set on its allowable maximum profits, the company will probably have to bring in proposals which will mean rate reductions for telephone subscribers. (See Page 15).

Mr. Bonner said he conferred Wednesday morning with Vancouver lawyer C. W. Brazier, who represented the provincial government during the com-

King Car
Raked
By Critic

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ralph Nader had a chary warning Wednesday for all those kings, princes and ushers who revel in the greatest auto status symbol of them all. The Rolls-Royce, he said, has poor door latches.

The automobile industry's chief critic made his charge in a statement submitted to House commerce committee hearings on highway safety.

"The overrated and overpriced Rolls-Royce has poor door latches," he said. "According to Derwyn Severy of the University of California at Los Angeles, at a 20-mile-per-hour impact, the Rolls-Royce's doors, hood and trunk will come open."

In London, where the cars are custom-made, the loudest sound coming out of Rolls-Royce's headquarters was the ticking of that clock. The company said it had no comment on Nader's statement.

Nader told UPI he had cited the Rolls-Royce to show failure to make cars as safe as they could be was "tendemic to the industry."

"It's supposed to be the king. Look what we get," Nader said. "For $15,000 to $18,000 you could have a crash-worthy car that would be the marvel of the industry."

The bar critic said the Rolls-Royce had luxury and snob appeal as well as "considerable reliability and durability." For the price, he added, "it could have very significant safety innovations but there has been little change year after year."

SEATTLE (CP) — The U.S. Congress will step in if Canada takes unilateral action to alter fishing procedure in the North Pacific, Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) said Wednesday.

He commented on a controversy between the two nations. Canadian fishermen have threatened to fish the high seas with nets for salmon unless U.S. fishermen stop intercepting British Columbia-bound salmon off Noyes Island in southeast Alaska.

U.S. fishermen contend Noyes Island is a historic American salmon fishery and they have no intention of leaving it. Magnuson said from Washington, D.C.

Golf with Security

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 99-page document reading like a movie spy thriller and reporting how the Russians were surreptitiously given information about everything from ethnic groups in Canada to pipelines and even headstones of the dead, was reported Wednesday night by Mr. Justice Dalton Wells.

The Ontario Supreme Court justice, appointed by Prime Minister Pearson to inquire into the case of the late George Victor Spencer, the will-o-the-wisp figure in a web of intrigue, released the document on the eve of opening public hearings here.

It was a transcript of evidence taken at hearings held in Ottawa April 13-14-15 in which W. H. Kelly, assistant commissioner of the RCMP and the force's director of security and intelligence, told how Spencer made at least seven trips to Ottawa to make secret contact with Russian agents.

Spencer

Confirming Statement

In these visits, the assistant commissioner said, Spencer supplied the Soviet agents with films and verbal and written reports on such things as farms for sale close to the U.S. border, ethnic groups in Canada and their political feelings, U.S.-Canada border-crossing procedures, photos of Vancouver slums, the Trans-Canada Pipeline and even the names and dates of deceased on headstones in Vancouver cemeteries.

Assistant Commissioner Kelly testified RCMP felt the significance of Spencer's activities suggested acquisition of suitable property for the establishment of a Russian intelligence service illegal network near the United States border.

With information from tombstones, said the RCMP officer, the Russians could send someone to Canada using the identity of the dead person.

The document contained a statement made to the RCMP by Spencer and labelled "top secret" in which the 62-year-old dismissed postal clerk confirmed most of the assertions about Spencer's activities made under oath by the assistant commissioner.

At one point in the Ottawa inquiry, commission counsel J. J. Robinette asked assistant commissioner Kelly:

"Do the matters that Spencer, was called upon to perform, by your opinion—forget the Russian opinion—in your opinion fit into an espionage program?"

Mr. Kelly: "They do."

Mr. Robinette: "Does this investigation disclose whether or not Spencer was paid anything by the Russian intelligence officers for his work and for his trips to Ottawa?"

Mr. Kelly: "From the investigation, we've estimated Spencer received an average of $500 per trip for the seven trips to Ottawa, making a total of $3,500."

Never Got Bonus

In his statement, Spencer said: "During all my trips to Ottawa I would only get my actual expenses reimbursed to me. I never did get a bonus."

"When I first made contact with these people I did not think that there was any ulterior motive but after the third trip I suspected there was something wrong and I was maybe being used as an agent."

In his statement Spencer said he was an accepted member of the Communist party in the late 1930s, was expelled in 1946 from the party which was at that time known as the Labor Progressive Party because of arguments over policy matters.

He said he was associated later with the Canadian-Soviet Friendship Society in Vancouver. Spencer was dismissed from his Vancouver postal clerk's job following the expulsion of two Russian Ottawa embassy officials—Commercial Attache Anatoly E. Bychkov and chancery clerk V. N. Potchekin—from Canada for alleged espionage activities.

The case of the English-born Spencer, who came to Canada in 1907, caused a furore in the House of Commons and a crisis within the cabinet of Prime Minister Pearson's minority government when the prime minister reversed the stand of

Soviet Reconciliation Sought

China's Grumbling Rebels
Imperil Mao's Future

By RENE-GEORGES INAGANI

TOKYO (AP)—China's army newspaper reported Wednesday that there is a rebellious group in the Chinese Communist party and the survival of Mao Tse-tung's ideology is at stake. It seemed to hint that influential elements seek a reconciliation with the Soviet Communists.

The editorial in Liberation Army Daily, broadcast from Peking, was the latest of recent statements indicating concern in the Peking Politburo about trends among intellectuals and some sections of the armed forces.

The editorial said there are in the party certain "anti-party" persons who wear "a veil of Marxism-Leninism and Mao Tse-tung's teachings."

"The activities of these anti-party, anti-socialist elements are not an accidental phenomenon," it said. "They are responding to the great international anti-Chinese chorus of the imperialists, modern revisionists and various reactionaries to revise the Chinese reactionary class which has been struck down."

This seemed an indirect way of saying that pro-Soviet elements should be rooted out. By "imperialists and modern revisionists," the Chinese Communists mean the Americans and the current Soviet leadership. Peking has been accusing the Kremlin of plotting with the United States against China.

The presence of pro-Soviet elements in China, possibly in influential places, conceivably might explain why the Soviet leaders have seemed restrained in dealing with cascades of anti-Kremlin vituperation from Peking. The Kremlin has replied only with appeals for world Communist unity.

Analysts have suggested that any significant change in leadership or policies in China might clear the way for mending relations with the Soviet party. That could mean much economically and perhaps in modernizing China's armed forces.

The chief target of the editorial is the intellectual class, but it made clear that others are involved, those "linked with the anti-party activities of right-wing opportunists within the party."

Editorials in the official Peking People's Daily have warned against anti-party elements but have said that despite ups and downs Peking communism would win out.

Rhodesia Blackout
Aim of Saboteurs

SALISBURY (LAT) — African nationalists attempted to blow up a power line which would have blacked out three quarters of Rhodesia.

Cutting the cable between Salisbury and the Kariba Dam was believed to have been the signal for a nationwide outbreak of sabotage attacks.

Explosives were found Wednesday at the base of one of the 100-foot pylons carrying the main line only 10 miles from the scene of a gun battle between Rhodesian police and a gang of terrorists which left seven of the gang dead Friday. It was not learned whether the charge of explosives had been placed by the terrorists engaged in the battle, or whether another group was responsible.

Police captured an undisclosed number of intruders since the Ian Smith government declared its independence last November.

TURIN (AP) — The Soviet Union and Italy's Fiat Automobile Co. Wednesday signed an agreement for a plant in Russia to turn out 2,000 cars a day. The deal was described in business circles as the biggest ever by the Soviet government with a private concern.

The plant for assembling Fiat cars inside the Soviet Union is expected to carry a $250,000,000 price tag.

Housewife Led Torturers

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The 15-year-old sister of a teen-age torture victim wept Wednesday as she described how slain Sylvia Likens was forced naked to the floor and branded with a red hot needle.

Jennie Likens testified her 15-year-old sister lay on the kitchen floor at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Baniszewski "just gritting her teeth and shaking her head."

Mrs. Baniszewski, 37, divorced wife of a former policeman; her daughter, Paula, 17; son, John, 13; and neighbor youths Coy Hubbard and Richard Hobbs, both 15, are on trial on charges of first degree murder in the slaying.

Jennie said the words "I'm a prostitute and proud of it" were burned into her sister's abdomen "three or four days before Sylvia died."

"Shirley struck the matches. Gertie (Mrs. Baniszewski) and Rickie (Hobbs) would hold the needle to the match. Gertie started the (word) 'I'm' and then she said she was getting sick and told Rickie to take over," Jennie said, wiping away tears.

Jennie said at that point she was sent to the grocery store and did not witness the remainder of the branding with the needle. She said when she returned to the Baniszewski home, where the Likens girls were boarders while their parents operated a food concession with a traveling carnival, Sylvia stood at the door leading to the basement.

"Rickie took a poker and tried to heat it with matches but it didn't get hot enough to suit him, so he lit some paper and heated the poker."

Jennie said the poker was to be used to brand a letter "S" on Sylvia's body.

When the poker branding was completed, Jennie said, Sylvia went back upstairs.

"Gertie said to (Sylvia), 'Now what are you going to do? You can't get married or undressed in front of anybody with that on you.' Sylvia said, 'There's nothing I can do. It's on there now.'"

Jennie said the night before Sylvia died, Oct. 26, she collapsed after days of abuse.

"Gertie got hot water and poured it on her face. Sylvia couldn't get up. Everytime she got up, she'd go right back down on the floor."

When Sylvia sought to flee from the Baniszewski home, Jennie said, "Mrs. Baniszewski dragged her back into the house by her hair."

Campbell Appoints Two

Reeves to Study Direct-Sale Law

The provincial government has asked municipal governments throughout British Columbia for guidance in the next major overhaul of the Municipal Act.

It has also asked them to help draw up uniform regulations for the licensing and bonding of door-to-door salesmen.

CURTIS, MORTON
Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Wednesday Reeves and Curtis of Sanich and Hugh Donald Morton of North Cowichan, had been appointed as a two-man committee to bring in recommendations for a Direct Sellers Act during the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in September.

REVISION
The minister also said he and deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown will hold a two-day conference in Victoria Monday and Tuesday with the UBCM executive to discuss the next revision of the Municipal Act.

Mr. Campbell said: "I have asked the UBCM to undertake a complete review of the Municipal Act, under the theme 'Local Government Machinery for the Seventies' and they have agreed to carry it out."

The revisions will probably not be ready for passage by the legislature until 1968, although minor amendments to the act are still likely to be made by his department during the next session, he said.

The problem which Reeves, Curtis and Morton will be tackling will be how to eliminate the undesirable features currently involved in direct selling.

COMPROMISE
They will have to walk a tightrope of compromise, worrying on one hand about protection of householders from unscrupulous salesmen, and on the other how to make it practical for legitimate salesmen to enter the field.

At the present time, for example, there is no bonding of salesmen and no machinery for establishing ethics in the selling field, while municipal licence fees range from $10 to $500.

WIDE RANGE
Whatever recommendations they bring back to the UBCM will also have to cover a wide range of door-to-door salesmen whose wares include everything from pots and pans to educational books such as encyclopedias.

Mr. Campbell said the government would pay expenses associated with both of these long-term legislative projects, in the form of grants to the UBCM. He said he could not estimate how high these expenses would be.

The 12-foot cedar log lies in the basement of his home at Koksilah, as the Thunderbird and the Grizzly Bear take shape.

Various size chisels are the tools used, and a home made adze that belonged to his father-in-law.

His wife, Madeline, was born in Duncan and her father was a dug-out canoe maker.

BUSH WORKER
Stanley used to work in the woods and was a rigging slinger at Gordon River in 1958, when a sapling swung the wrong way and he got badly hurt. Off work for a long time he started carving again.

Now he works for the municipality of North Cowichan. People want him to carve more poles but he does not have the time.

"A man with a family has to have a steady job," he says, and he is very pleased to be taken on by the municipality. He has a family of seven children.

Son, Vernon, tries his hand at carving too, and is making an 8-foot totem. He has the Whale on his pole, and hopes to sell it when it is finished.

He said although the $700,000 North Cowichan composite recreation bylaw for the whole municipality was defeated earlier this year it created a great interest in recreation.

Petitions with 300 signatures from Crofton and with 600 names from Chemainus were submitted to council urging the Fuller's Lake arena.

Spokesman for the Chemainus Recreation Commission said: "If we wait for another two years construction costs would go up 25 per cent."

Coun. John Cannon said the bylaw with the merging clause is the only answer to the recreational problem in the municipality and Coun. Mrs. Elaine Dobbey remarked, "I am very much in favor of it."

Reeve Morton said it should not be overlooked that recreational facilities in the south might also be shared by districts outside the North Cowichan municipality.

Arena and Pool Closer In North Cowichan Plan

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN—Council Wednesday learned an arena for the north and a swimming pool for the south of the municipality may be a reality-sooner than

A recreation bylaw for an ice arena at Fuller's Lake for the northern portion of the North Cowichan Municipality will be prepared. Council approved in principle of this bylaw with a merging clause.

It is expected it will be put before qualified voters in the Chemainus, Crofton and Westholme areas by the end of next month.

The merging clause has been added as a safeguard.

The separate bylaw proposal will give the southern portion of the municipality an opportunity to establish and prepare its recreational needs.

Then people in the south will also vote on a similar bylaw with a similar merging clause and both areas will eventually merge and pay jointly for all recreational facilities.

Abstaining from voting was Coun. George Whittaker who said, "I just want people to obviously want."

He said if the south end, for instance, decided to spend $1,000,000 on a centre then the north would have to pay for it as well after merging.

The proposed arena at Fuller's Lake will cost about $300,000. Coun. Whittaker said it will need a very firm council to control this situation.

Reporting on Tuesday night's North Cowichan Recreation Commission meeting, Coun. Dennis Hogan said a petition with 800 signatures clearly indicates the strong desire for a swimming pool and for the south of the municipality and Reeve Morton said, "We probably will see a bylaw for a swimming pool in a relatively short time."

Mrs. T. Hamilton told the Recreation Commission Tuesday, "I am trying very hard to make people aware of the need for a covered swimming pool." She said the lakes are useless for swimming instruction and private pools will have to turn away a large number of children who want to learn to swim.

She added, "We try to cope with a desperate situation."

Spokesman for the Chemainus Recreation Commission said: "If we wait for another two years construction costs would go up 25 per cent."

Coun. John Cannon said the bylaw with the merging clause is the only answer to the recreational problem in the municipality and Coun. Mrs. Elaine Dobbey remarked, "I am very much in favor of it."

Blair Heads Region

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—The organizational meeting of the Alberni-Clayoquot Regional District, held Tuesday night, elected Alderman Charles Blair of Alberni as chairman.

Ten other members of the committee represent Port Alberni and the districts of Beaver Creek, Sproat Lake, Tolmie, Uchelet and Cherry Creek.

Members will hold office until Jan. 31 and members to be elected June 11 will be in office until February, 1968.

The next meeting will decide on functions to be assumed by the group.

'SPCA Pets Could Go For Research'

NORTH COWICHAN—At a council meeting Wednesday Coun. Dennis Hogan asked if the SPCA shelter had considered selling animals from the shelter for Coun. George Whittaker said, "The SPCA is missing a bet" if it does not consider selling animals for this purpose.

Reeve Morton asked, "Do you mean experiments with live animals? And Coun. Whittaker replied, "Yes."

The Reeve commented people bringing their animals to the SPCA shelter probably would be very much against such practice.

SOURCE OF CASH
Coun. Whittaker said the legal sale of animals would prevent gangs stealing animals for research and the SPCA would get some of the money it needs.

Miss Mary Walden, a local SPCA official, contacted after the meeting, said, "We are working on selling animals for research now."

SITUATION STUDIED
"It is a very big subject and a committee is being formed to investigate the matter."

She added the provincial parent body of the SPCA is looking into the situation.

NO CABIN
With the exception of Coun. Whittaker council voted against granting a lease of 10 acres of municipal land to a private person. The land in question is fronting the Chemainus River.

Council learned the taxpayer wants to build a summer cabin.

DISCOUNT MONEY
Coun. Mrs. Dobbey said, "I oppose this lease to one man because it would tie up valuable municipal land and we would set a precedent." Referring to a remark that it would bring in some revenue she replied, "Money should not enter this at all."

Coun. Whittaker said the man could be given a smaller piece of land and at the same time the land would be watched during the fire season.

HURDLE CLEARED
The last hurdle toward a $500,000 sewer project which will serve the Gibbins Road, Mary Street and Sherman Road area has been overcome Reeve Morton said.

The Pollution Control Board has informed the municipality the project is approved but certain conditions have been referred to the municipal consulting engineer.

PROPER TAXATION
"It is our opinion that this should be paid for through proper taxation of every Canadian would pay according to ability," said the executive.

It was also reported to the meeting that the executive officers of the council will constitute a committee to investigate food prices in the Alberni Valley as compared with other areas in B.C.

Nature Meet
DUNCAN—Cowichan Valley Natural History Society will be host to the B.C. Nature Council on Saturday and Sunday.

The council is an affiliation of all B.C. Nature societies, and delegates from many parts of B.C. are expected.

Students Inspect Future

An expected 40 secondary school students from all over Vancouver Island will converge on the University of Victoria Saturday to begin an experiment in liaison between campus and high school.

The event is the first Vancouver Island Student Leaders Seminar, sponsored by the university student council and the campus branch of the Canadian Union of Students.

One Grade 11 student and one from Grade 12 have been invited from every senior high school on the Island.

The turnout of 40 students represents an almost unanimous response, CUS chairman Brian Smith said Wednesday.

The Grade 12 students, all of them expecting to enter the university next fall, will hear about campus student government in B.C. and will begin organizing September's Fresh Week which introduces new students to the university.

Grade 11 delegates will discuss student government in high school and organize liaison with the university next winter.

In a letter to senior high school principals, campus student council president Stephen Bigsby said the council wants to encourage the maximum number of qualified high school students to enter university.

Vocational School Services

Training Suits Many

By PETER TAYLOR
NANAIMO—A new twist will be given to an old idea Saturday when Career Day will be presented at the B.C. Vocational School in Nanaimo.

The event has been jointly sponsored by Hub City Kiwanis and the school.

YO-YOS
This year the counsellors are zeroing in on opportunities which anyone can make use of at the school. Everything from beauty culture through commercial courses to automotive repairs.

What goes on at the vocational school?

Most people in the area know the school combines a modern airy gain building with some ex-army huts and workshops and that students come and go like Yo-Yos.

WIDE RANGE
The school is financed by the two senior governments but it has nothing to do with the Nanaimo School District, and students come from literally all parts of Canada.

This maybe puts it outside the local context.

Students fall into three groups.

● Pre-apprentices — Young people, usually who have just left school and starting out in their vocation.

● Pre-employment — Those unemployed or in need of training who have come to learn a trade.

● Upgrading — Tradesmen who want to improve their standing, and become efficient in new equipment.

Ed. Richmond, the vice-principal, proudly maintains the institution is unique among the provinces vocational schools.

Now, there are dormitories provided for the students, he said.

The Nanaimo School is expanding faster, and offers the greatest diversification in courses.

GOVERNMENT AID
Various grants and aid programs can be applied for by students for financial assistance from the government nevertheless more than half the students pay their own fees of $15 a month for each course.

What does the school offer? Where to look first?

BEAUTY CLASSES
Beauty is supposed to gladden the heart, and the end results in the beauty culture classes should certainly fill that bill. Beauty culture is a fast growing service industry, just think for a moment, who advertises most on TV, who fills up the pages of the glossy magazines with ads, the companies promoting beauty aids must be the answer.

GERM STUDY
At the end of the course the students have received one thousand hours of instruction.

They not only know how to style milady's hair in the latest fashion, they are also conversant with bacteriology, and bone structure and the circulatory system.

The instructor Mrs. Irene Leetma put it this way, "If they don't know how the germ grows, how fast it grows, then they don't know the reason for sterilization."

SILENT HEADS
"They have to know theory thoroughly before actually touching people. We are dealing with chemicals and anatomy all day long."

Evidence of Mrs. Leetma's training was the line of mannequin heads, solemnly sitting under a bank of hair dryers, all with a brand new hair style.

ring up for an appointment, charges are minimal, you can have the works, hair set a manicure and facial.

The school needs more appointments.

Upstairs in the new building are commercial classes.

In one small room there is more than $14,000 worth of equipment in just two machines.

DATA PROCESSING
The key punch translates human language into machine language, or as instructor Geoff Turner called it "an input device for electronic data processing."

This machine and its sister, the accounting machine, which can keep a complete set of books, including a payroll journal, and voucher register, are not strictly part of the commercial course.

KEY PUNCH
They are for office workers who wish to upgrade themselves.

The key punch is a mandatory four week course, but Mr. Turner lets students graduate on the accounting machine when he considers them proficient.

These machines are the primadonnas of the commercial classes.

Who Has a Big Top Hat?

By H. F. REA

LAKE COWICHAN—This village is full of surprises this week. An apothecary in cravat and claw-hammer coat such as his great grandfather wore, serves aspirin and hair set to ladies in shorts and bright sweaters.

A supermarket has changed into a trading post and ladies in bonnet and shawl, long skirts and feathered hats shop from the modern displays of groceries.

Activity at the municipal hall includes the parking lot being black topped, in time for a pancake breakfast on the town Saturday morning.

"Can I borrow your wagon wheels?" ask one enthusiast. "Who has a big top hat?" enquires another.

The fashion parade on Friday

Over 50 entries have been sent in for the baby show.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes will watch the parade on Saturday from the municipal hall steps, before driving to the ball park for the official opening of centennial celebrations.

Eighty entries have been received for floats and they will be judged before parading through the village.

Confirmation has been received from Comox there will be a fly past of air force planes, from west to east, at 12:15 p.m. Saturday.

Port Alberni

Job Situation Best in Years

PORT ALBERNI — Employment in this area is currently at one of the highest levels in recent years, according to J. A. Gunn-Fowle, local National Employment Service manager.

Only 233 men were registered at the end of April compared with 389 at the end of March. Total of men and women applying for jobs in April was 443 compared with 638 the previous month.

HELP WANTED

Turnover was noted particularly in local industrial plants as employers sought to obtain better types of applicants even for ordinary laboring jobs, Mr. Gunn-Fowle said.

In the logging industry the demand exceeded the supply of experienced loggers and it became increasingly difficult to find men for the lesser skilled positions.

In preparation for the summer employment of university undergraduates hiring at the local pulp mill lessened considerably.

Construction showed continuing activity at a moderate pace.

"Supply and demand for tradesmen was in near balance but a shortage of good laborers developed," the NES manager observed.

STEADY DEMAND

For the first time this year a steady demand for qualified merchandising staff was evident. Good experienced help was at a premium both in retail and service industries.

There were 210 women registered in April compared with 249 the previous month.

Heat Wave Hits London

LONDON (Reuters) — A heat wave has hit London, jamming the parks with clerks and typists seeking relief from stuffy offices. Weather experts said the temperature rose to a high of 77 degrees, making it the hottest early-May day since their records began in 1940.

Victoria, Vancouver Chiefs Under Fire

Lawyer Hits 'Sheep, Hacks'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver lawyer has charged juries are apathetic sheep and some judges are political hacks.

C. R. MacLean said the jury system is dying out because people no longer believe it is a noble and solemn duty to serve.

Mr. MacLean, a member of the Vancouver Bar Association's justice committee, made the comments in a speech Tuesday on The Press.

Men's Christian Association program meeting.

In a question-and-answer period later, he severely criticized Victoria Police Chief Jack Gregory and Vancouver Police Chief Ralph Booth, who have called for wider powers for police.

"Juries nowadays are apathetic sheep," Mr. MacLean said.

"They look at the judge like he had come down from Mount Sinai with 12 tablets in his hands."

He said judges in many cases are nothing more than political hacks who make errors which can give a jury wrong direction.

Mr. MacLean said he was shocked by the attitudes of Chief Gregory and Chief Booth in declaring police should have wider powers and the magistrate and judge "almost automatically presume he is telling the truth and the accused is lying," the lawyer said.

"These policemen are being led by men like Booth and Gregory who should be in the front line fighting for civil liberties instead of fighting against these things."

Mr. MacLean urged the public to fight summonses for minor offences.

"You will be doing a public service if you go to court and make them prove the charge, even if it's only a traffic ticket."

SPENCER FED RED AGENTS

'Thriller' Released

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 99-page document reading like a movie spy thriller and reporting how the Russians were surreptitiously given information about everything from ethnic groups in Canada to pipelines and even headstones of the dead, was reported Wednesday night by Mr. Justice Dalton Wells.

The Ontario Supreme Court Justice, appointed by Prime Minister Pearson to inquire into the case of the late George Victor Spencer, the will-o-the-wisp figure in a web of intrigue, released the document on the eve of opening public hearings here.

(See Text Page 56)

It was a transcript of evidence taken at hearings held in Ottawa April 13-14-15 in which W. H. Kelly, assistant commissioner of the RCMP and the force's director of security and intelligence, told how Spencer made at least seven trips to Ottawa to make secret contact with Russian agents.

Spencer

Confirming Statement

In these visits, the assistant commissioner said, Spencer supplied the Soviet agents with films and verbal and written reports on such things as farms for sale close to the U.S. border, ethnic groups in Canada and their political feelings, U.S.-Canada border-crossing procedures, photos of Vancouver slums, the Trans-Canada Pipeline and even the names and dates of deceased on headstones in Vancouver cemeteries.

Assistant Commissioner Kelly testified RCMP felt the significance of Spencer's activities "suggested acquisition of suitable property for the establishment of a Russian intelligence service illegal network" near the United States border.

With information from tombstones, said the RCMP officer, the Russians could send someone to Canada using the identity of the dead person.

The document contained a

Never Got Bonus

In his statement, Spencer said: "During all my trips to Ottawa I would only get my actual expenses reimbursed to me. I never did get a bonus."

When I first made contact with these people I did not think there was any ulterior motive but after the third trip I suspected there was something wrong and I was maybe being used as an agent."

In his statement Spencer said he was an accepted member of the Communist party in the late 1930s, was expelled in 1946 from the party which was at that time known as the Labor Progressive Party because of arguments over policy matters.

Bonner Hails Decision

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Attorney-General Bonner Wednesday hailed the Board of Transport Commissioners' ruling about B.C. Telephone Company profits as a "landmark judgment" in favor of telephone subscribers in this province.

"It is not something the people will throw their hats in the air about because it's a very technical sort of field, although the judgment is of definite advantage to phone subscribers," he said.

The attorney-general said because a maximum has now been set on its allowable maximum profits, the company will probably have to bring in proposals which will mean rate reductions for telephone subscribers. (See Page 15.)

Mr. Bonner said he conferred Wednesday morning with Vancouver lawyer C. W. Brazier, who represented the provincial government during the commission.

Shells Lay Silent Under Busy Strip

PARIS (Reuters) — Workmen repairing the main runway of Orly Airport discovered Wednesday a land mine and six 105-mm. shells just below its surface. The runway was used by about 300 planes a day until it was closed recently for resurfacing.

King Car Raked By Critic

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ralph Nader had a chary warning Wednesday for all those kings, princes and uncommon men who revel in the greatest auto status symbol of them all. The Rolls-Royce, he said, has poor door latches.

The automobile industry's chief critic made his charge in a statement submitted to House commerce committee hearings on highway safety.

"The overrated and overpriced Rolls-Royce has poor door latches," he said. "According to Derwys Severy of the University of California at Los Angeles, at a 20-mile-per-hour impact, the Rolls-Royce's doors, hood and trunk will come open."

In London, where the cars are custom-made, the loudest sound coming out of Rolls-Royce's headquarters was the ticking of that clock. The company said it had no comment on Nader's statement.

Nader told UPI he had cited the Rolls-Royce to show failure to make cars as safe as they could be was "endemic to the industry."

"It's supposed to be the king. Look what we get," Nader said. "For $15,000 to $18,000 you could have a crash-worthy car that would be the marvel of the industry."

The car critic said the Rolls-Royce had luxury and snob appeal as well as "considerable reliability and durability." For the price, he added, "it could have very significant safety innovations but there has been little change year after year."

Congress May Enter Dispute

SEATTLE (CP) — The U.S. Congress will step in if Canada taxes unilateral action to alter fishing procedure in the North Pacific, Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) said Wednesday.

He commented on a controversy between the two nations.

Canadian fishermen have threatened to fish the high seas with nets for salmon unless U.S. fishermen stop intercepting British Columbia-bound salmon off Noyes Island in southeast Alaska.

U.S. fishermen contend Noyes Island is a historic American salmon fishery and they have no intention of leaving it.

Magnuson said from Washington, D.C.:

"It is my sincere hope that cooler heads may prevail in our present negotiations with

Soviet Reconciliation Sought

China's Grumbling Rebels Imperil Mao's Future

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

TOKYO (AP)—China's army newspaper reported Wednesday that there is a rebellious group in the Chinese Communist party and the survival of Mao Tse-tung's ideology is at stake. It seemed to hint that influential elements seek a reconciliation with the Soviet Communists.

The editorial in Liberation Army Daily, broadcast from Peking, was the latest of recent statements indicating concern in the Peking Politburo about trends among intellectuals and some sections of the armed forces.

The editorial said there are in the party certain "anti-party" persons who wear "a veil of Marxism-Leninism and Mao Tse-tung's teachings."

"The activities of these anti-party, anti-socialist elements are not an accidental phenomenon," it said. "They are responding to the great international anti-Chinese chorus of the imperialists, modern revisionists and various reactionaries to revive the Chinese reactionary class which has been struck down."

This seemed an indirect way of saying that pro-Soviet elements should be rooted out. By "imperialists and modern revisionists," the Chinese Commu-

The presence of pro-Soviet elements in China, possibly in influential places, conceivably might explain why the Soviet leaders have seemed restrained in dealing with cascades of anti-Kremlin vituperation from Peking. The Kremlin has replied only with appeals for world Communist unity.

Analysts have suggested that any significant change in leadership or policies in China might clear the way for mending relations with the Soviet party. That could mean much economically and perhaps in modernizing China's armed forces.

The chief target of the editorial is the intellectual class, but it made clear that others are involved, those "linked with the anti-party activities of right-wing opportunists within the party."

Editorials in the official Peking People's Daily have warned against anti-party elements but have said that despite ups and downs Peking communism would win out.

Long Tour Nears End

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth left Upland Airport at 8:34 p.m. PDT Wednesday on the last leg of her return to London after a six-week tour of Australia and New Zealand.

Rhodesia Blackout Aim of Saboteurs

SALISBURY (LAT) — African nationalists attempted to blow up a power line which would have blacked out three quarters of Rhodesia.

Cutting the cable between Salisbury and the Kariba Dam was believed to have been the signal for a nationwide outbreak of sabotage attacks.

Explosives were found Wednesday at the base of one of the 100-foot pylons carrying the main line only 10 miles from the scene of a gun battle between Rhodesian police and a gang of terrorists which left seven of the gang dead Friday. It was not learned whether the charge of explosives had been placed by the terrorists engaged in the battle, or whether another group was responsible.

Police captured an undisclosed number of intruders since the Ian Smith government declared its independence last November.

Russian Fiats Will Roll

TURIN (AP) — The Soviet Union and Italy's Fiat Automobile Co. Wednesday signed an agreement for a plant in Russia to turn out 2,000 cars a day. The deal was described in business circles as the biggest ever by the Soviet government with a private concern.

The plant for assembling Fiat cars inside the Soviet Union is expected to carry a $320,000,000 price tag.

Housewife Led Torturers

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The polio-crippled younger sister of a teen-age torture victim west Wednesday as she described how slain Sylvia Likens was forced naked to the floor and branded with a red hot needle.

Mrs. Baniszewski, 37, divorced wife of a former policeman; her daughter, Paula, 17, son, John, 13; and neighbor youths Coy Hubbard and Richard Hobbs, both 15, are on trial on charges of first degree murder in the slaying.

Jennie said the words "I'm a prostitute and proud of it" were burned into her sister's abdomen "three or four days before Sylvia died."

"Shirley struck the matches. Gertie (Mrs. Baniszewski) and Rickie (Hobbs) would hold the needle to the match. Gertie started the words 'I'm' and then she said she was getting sick and told Rickie to take over," Jennie said, wiping away tears.

Jennie said at that point she was sent to the grocery store and did not witness the remainder of the branding with the needle. She said when she returned to the Baniszewski home, where the Likens girls were boarders while their parents operated a food concession with a traveling carnival, Sylvia stood at the door leading to the basement.

"Rickie took a poker and tried to heat it with matches but it didn't get hot enough to suit him, so he lit some paper and heated the poker."

Jennie said the poker was to be used to brand a letter "S" on Sylvia's body.

When the poker branding was completed, Jennie said, Sylvia went back upstairs.

"Gertie said to (Sylvia), 'Now what are you going to do? You can't get married or undressed in front of anybody with that on you.' Sylvia said, 'There's nothing I can do. It's on there now.'"

Jennie said the night before Sylvia died, Oct. 26, she collapsed after days of abuse.

"Gertie got hot water and poured it on her face. Sylvia couldn't get up. Everytime she got up, she'd go right back down on the floor."

When Sylvia sought to flee from the Baniszewski home, Jennie said, "Mrs. Baniszewski dragged her back into the house by her hair."
